Saved Lives

OFFICER LOWE SAVED 100
LIVES ON FATAL NIGHT

Bodies of Astor, Straus and Many Others Found—the Olympic Cancels Trip

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Chairman Smith of the senatorial probe of the Titanic wreck compelled Vice President Franklin of the White Star Steamship Company, to repeat the story of the first news that the Titanic had sank. Franklin declared that he did not withhold any news, but aided the newspapers to secure information.

The Titanic boatswain's mate, Albert Haines, testified that he helped fifty passengers into a life boat. He said that Fifth Officer Lowe, after saving one boatload, returned and picked up twenty more, then towed a submerged life boat bearing sixty victims to a partially filled boat which they boarded. Lowe probably saved one hundred lives.

DID THE CALIFORNIA SHIRK HER DUTY TO SINKING SHIP
Ernest Gill, a donkeyman on the liner California, testified that he saw rockets from the Titanic on Sunday night about ten miles away. He wondered why the California did not go to the rescue or even awaken the sleeping wireless operator. He said he expects to lose his job as a result of his testimony.

He testified that the California passed close to the Titanic at a time when moments meant lives. The testimony is purported to indicate that no lives need to have been lost. This was strengthened by the testimony made to Senator Fletcher by John Bully, a Titanic survivor.

BODIES OF ASTOR AND STRAUS ARE RECOVERED
NEW YORK, April 26.—The bodies of J. J. Astor and Isador Straus, drowned in the Titanic, have been recovered and embalmed, according to a wireless from the steamer Mackay-Bennett.

After wirelessing the names of thirty-five bodies recovered, the message added: "The following have been embalmed: C. C. Jones, Reg. Butler, H. Harrison, T. W. Newell, J. J. Astor, Milton Clong, W. C. Dulles, H. J. Allison, George Graham, Jacob Birnbaum, Austin Partner, Pyrol Cavendish, Henrik Selmer."

BODY OF CHAS. M. HAYES BELIEVED RECOVERED
TORONTO, April 26.—A cable ship, and wireless message reports that the cable ship Minia, sent to aid the Mackay-Bennett, believes it has recovered the body of President Charles M. Hayes of the Grand Trunk railway system.

OLYMPIC CANCELS TRIP,
DISCHARGES PASSENGERS
—FIFTY DECKMAN STRIKE
PORTSMOUTH, England, April 26.—After endeavoring for two days to replace the three hundred stokers striking because they declared the ship's lifeboats unsafe, White Star steamship line officials were compelled today to cancel the Olympic's regular trip when fifty deckhands struck. The Olympic succeeded in securing non-union stokers, and the steamer had reached the Isle of Wight when the deckhands refused to work with non-unionists, and left the ship in a tug. Company officials appeared with the police who arrested the deckhands as mutineers. The Olympic was then ordered back to Southampton to discharge her passengers.

SAN DIEGO POLICE CAPTURED 27 I.W.W.'S ENROUTE TO CITY

SAN DIEGO, April 26.—The police today captured twenty-seven alleged Industrial Workers of the World en route here to participate in the "free speech" fight. They will be taken to the city limits and ordered to leave. It is reported scores of industrialists are coming from the north.

GEORGE BIGGS

His Relatives Know Nothing Of His Crimes

Biggs Has Written no Letters to and Received None From Brothers or Sisters

George Biggs, twice a murderer, is observing his determination not to let his relatives know of the trouble he is in.

After Biggs was brought to the county jail for the murder of Francis A. Montee in the Golden State tract east of Anaheim he declared that he hoped his brothers and sisters would never know that he was in jail and faced trial for his life.

He has not written a letter since he has been in jail, and has received none from any of his relatives, which would indicate that as yet they are unaware of the predicament into which Biggs has put himself. Two of Biggs' brothers live in Montana, about twenty-five miles from Bozeman, where Biggs lived, before coming to California six years ago. He has sisters in Kansas, and another brother in

Since the awful crime of April 12, Biggs has maintained his attitude of justifying himself for shooting Montee, then beating his head into the ground with a shovel, then striking Mrs. Montee down with the shovel as she ran to her murdered husband.

President and Vice President of U. S. Present—Eulogy of
Son of Famous Man

NEW YORK, April 26.—General Fred D. Grant, son of General Ulysses S. Grant, was buried at West Point today with full military honors, with President Taft, Vice President Sherman and General Leonard Wood attending the funeral services. The Army and Navy and G. A. R. were fully represented.

The services were held at Saint Cornelius' Chapel on Governor's Island, Chaplain Edmund Smith, assisted by Bishop Fallows, officiated. Fort batteries saluted at intervals throughout the morning. The body was placed on a military caisson and was escorted by the Twenty-ninth Infantry to the steamer General Otis, by which it was transferred to the West Point reservation. Behind the caisson marched a trooper leading General Grant's horse fully caparisoned, and bearing the deceased officer's boots with spurs reversed in the stirrups.

During his eulogy to General Grant, Bishop Fallows paid a tribute to General Archibald Butt, a victim of the Titanic disaster.

NEW YORK, April 26.—President Taft attended the funeral of General Fred D. Grant today and gave a eulogy in his honor. The president speaks at Newark tonight.

ROOSEVELT AS A STRIKE BREAKER

LOS ANGELES, April 26.—B. W. Heffelfinger, in addressing a Roosevelt meeting in this city, recalled in the following fashion an incident in Roosevelt's career which every working man may well read:

"You will remember that the great anthracite coal strike of 1902 was one of the most bitter strikes that has been witnessed in this country and was perhaps the most justifiable strike instituted by labor in recent years. As is usual in all big strikes, neither the strikers nor the operators suffered the full consequences of this strike. The principal victim was the consumer. Theodore Roosevelt summoned President Baer of the Reading railroad to Washington and told him: 'You end this strike or I'll end it for you.' The outcome of Roosevelt's ultimatum was that Baer consented to what the union had been demanding, the appointment of an arbitration board, and the anthracite coal commission investigated and remedied the abuses complained of.

"The opinion that the Pennsylvania miners hold of Roosevelt's action was never more forcibly expressed than in the last primary, where, in the coal districts, the Roosevelt vote was six, eight and even ten times that given Taft."

COMPLETES 30-DAY FAST

Dr. Linda Hazzard, Under Sentence for Starving Woman to Death by Fast, Shows Endurance

SEATTLE, April 26.—Dr. Linda Burdick Hazzard, fast specialist, under sentence of 2 to 20 years imprisonment for manslaughter of Claire Williamson, a wealthy English woman who, the prosecution alleged, was starved to death, today completed the thirtieth day of a self-imposed fast undertaken to prove mistaken doctors who testified against her. These experts declared 14 days set the human endurance limit without food.

Infant Elephant Born at Salinas Weighs 180 Pounds—Mother Essays Murder

SALINAS, Cal., April 26.—The heaviest baby ever born in America saw the light here today in a circus tent. He is a baby elephant, two feet tall, three feet long and weighing 180 pounds. His godparents say that nothing like him was ever bred and born in captivity on this continent.

Last Summer's Petition For Freeholders' Election Has Been Put on File

CLERK BURKE IS CHECKING NAMES

If Petition is Sufficient Election
Will Probably be Held Next Summer

"To the Honorable Board of City Trustees:
"We, the undersigned qualified voters of the said city of Santa Ana, do hereby respectfully petition your honorable board to call an election of a board of fifteen freeholders, whose duty it shall be to prepare and propose a charter of the government of said city, in accordance with the provisions of section 8, article XI of the constitution of the state of California.

"And we do respectfully petition your honorable board to call said election at the earliest possible date, so that said proposed charter may be submitted to the voters of said city in time to have the same voted upon, and, if adopted by the said voters, presented to the legislature of the state of California at its next regular session."

Yesterday afternoon at the request of E. B. Smith, City Clerk J. C. Burke filed the petition, prepared months ago, asking that the city trustees call an election for the selection of fifteen freeholders, and thus set in motion the machinery toward getting a special charter for Santa Ana.

The petition has 325 signers. It was circulated last summer, but was never filed for the reason that it was found that the charter it adopted could not be put through the last December. The petition was left at the office of the city clerk by E. B. Smith, then president of the Merchants & Manufacturers' Association, with instructions that it be not filed until such time as should later be determined upon.

Now that the petition is filed, the procedure as laid down by law is imperative, and the election of freeholders must be held. The city clerk has twenty days in which to verify the names of the signers as voters of this city. Should the signatures prove sufficient, the clerk will certify the petition to the city trustees, and an ordinance must be passed providing for the election, which will be held not less than twenty days nor more than sixty days after the passage of the ordinance. Thus the freeholders election will come, if the petition proves sufficient, probably about the middle of next summer.

The freeholders will then have a period in which to settle upon a charter, which will be submitted to the people for a vote. The question as to whether or not that charter as submitted will be a commission form of government will rest with the board of freeholders.

Clerk Burke is today busy going over the list of signers, comparing them with the Great Register.

BUFORD WILL SAIL FOR MEXICAN COAST AFTER AMERICANS

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The transport Buford has been ordered to leave San Francisco Sunday to rescue the Americans reported as being at the mercy of the rebels on the west coast of Mexico.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—The transport Buford, which has been out of commission for years, is coaling in midbay. She goes to the drydock tonight and expects to sail Sunday. She will visit all of the West Coast ports searching for stranded Americans.

MARYLAND AND WHIPPLE STEAM

STORY PROVES A BOOMERANG

Roosevelt, Former Attorney General
Bonaparte and Commissioner Smith
Explode the 'Bomb' in Taft's Hands

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., April 26.—"The talk about the suppression of the report is nonsense," said Colonel Roosevelt last night in a statement setting forth his connection with the International Harvester Company case.

Colonel Roosevelt asserted that at a meeting with his cabinet, at which Taft was present, it was decided that the bureau of corporations be instructed to complete its investigation of the harvester company before any suit was instituted, following the usual course of procedure in such cases. Taft, he added, acquiesced in this decision.

During the remainder of his administration, a period of a year and a half, Colonel Roosevelt said, the commissioner of corporations was unable to complete his investigation. He said that in the three years of the present administration Taft at any time could have ordered the attorney general to bring suit against the harvester company or could have requested the commissioner of corporations to hasten his investigation, but that Taft had taken no action "except that now taken five days before the Massachusetts primary."

Taft Only One to Profit, If Anybody Did
Colonel Roosevelt also said that when the Northern Securities suit was brought against the merger interests, in 1904, he was expecting to run for president, but that when the harvester company matter came up in 1907 he knew he would not be a candidate the following year, so that if the action taken in this case did not procure the good will "of any of the Morgan interests for anybody, it secured their good will for Mr. Taft."

In amplification of his statement, Colonel Roosevelt quotes letters sent him by Mr. Bonaparte, his attorney general, and Herbert Knox Smith, then and now commissioner of corporations.

IN WORLD OF SPORT —CALIFORNIA BUSY

Stanford Asked to Join Regatta at Poughkeepsie; U. of C. to Send Track Team East

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, April 26.—Stanford's success over Washington and California in the annual Pacific Coast regatta has resulted in an invitation to participate in the great annual regatta at Poughkeepsie. According to present plans, the Stanford eight will travel East to meet Cornell, Wisconsin, Georgetown, Pennsylvania, and the other eastern crack crews.

Would Send U. C. Track Team East
BERKELEY, April 26.—Students and alumni of the University of California are working today to raise funds to send the wonderful California track team East to participate in the American college championships which will be held in Philadelphia in May. The overwhelming victory of California over Stanford April 20 has served to show the sporting enthusiasts of the bay section that the state university has one of the most phenomenal track aggregations in the history of American intercollegiate athletics. They argue from records made in this meet and the best records made during the last three years at Yale, Harvard and the other great eastern universities that California would sweep the eastern tracks. It is declared on good authority that in Beeson and MacLise, hurdlers, Allen, broad jumper, Shattuck, hammer thrower, and Rice and Hale, shot putters, California has men that could not be beaten by a single performer in any American college.

Vail, pole vaulter, Stanton, sprinter, and Todd, quarter-miler, also are performers who might upset the easterners. Three thousand dollars is needed for the trip, and the students are confident the money will be raised.

San Diego May Enter League
SAN DIEGO, April 26.—San Diego may enter the circuit of the Pacific Coast Baseball League next season. This possibility was called to the attention of the fans here today by the announcement that J. Cal Ewing, president of the San Francisco club, will visit San Diego next month. Ewing refused to state the object of the trip. All the Coast League magnates but McCredie of Portland are known to be in favor of expansion to an eight club league. Should San Diego be the seventh city, Seattle appears to be the choice of the league men for the other. San Diego is known to have entered into negotiations with President Baum of the coast league regarding a possible berth in its organization.

RICHESON IS BREAKING
Minister-Murderer Has Become Hysterical Over Prospect of Execution May 19th

BOSTON, April 26.—Clarence V. T. Richeson, the former minister, under sentence to die the week beginning May 19 for poisoning Avis Linnell, is "hysterical and irresponsible," according to Dr. E. B. Lane, an alienist who observed the condemned man in behalf of Richeson's attorneys.

Charles Holmes Put His Intention to "Crack Safes" Into
Black and White; Sad Result

LOS ANGELES, April 26.—Because he wrote a letter to his pal at the Reform School at Lone, which stated that he intended to "crack safes" when he was "through with his time," Charles Holmes, one of the pair who held up and shot Judge W. H. Jamieson, was today sentenced to life imprisonment.

He is 29 years old. He wrote the letter to Charles White, an accomplice in the Jamieson job, who was sent to the reform school instead of prison.

RACE WAR FEARED —MILITIA AT SCENE

MORROW, La., April 26.—Following serious outbreaks between whites and negroes in which one negro was lynched, Company D of the Louisiana national guard went yesterday to Delhi, thirty miles east of here, further disorders being feared. The black and white population of Delhi and the surrounding countryside were reported to be ready to battle to the death. More troops will be sent if the first detachment is found unable to cope with the situation.

EXTRADITION FOR DEAN
Alleged Bank Robber Must Go to Canada to Answer Charge of Theft

LOS ANGELES, April 26.—After a determined battle against extradition Charles Dean, alleged bank robber, was ordered extradited yesterday to New Westminster, Canada, by United States Commissioner William M. Van Dyke.

Dean is charged with others with looting the branch of the Bank of Montreal at New Westminster of $271,270 on September 15, 1911.

Dean's attorney announced he would ask for a review of the case and a 10-days' stay of execution was granted.

Sought to Wed 15-Year-Old Girl and Shot Mother Who Refused Consent

PORTLAND, April 26.—Mrs. Marguerite Bellaire, proprietor of a cleaning and dyeing works, was shot and instantly killed in her establishment by Lou Whitlock, a logger. The shooting followed the woman's refusal to permit Whitlock to marry her 15-year-old daughter. Five shots entered her body.

Whitlock said he arrived today from a logging camp in Washington. After buying a revolver he went to see the Bellaires. He claims the woman slapped him, and then seized a butcher knife.

MISSOURI IN MARCH FOR PROGRESS

Roosevelt Delegates Chosen
Today—Taftites Bolted
State's Action

RUMP CONVENTION NAMES
CONTEST DELEGATION

Roosevelt Invades Massachusetts Today—La Follette
Opens 4-Days' Tour

ST. LOUIS, April 26.—Defeated by the Roosevelt forces in the State Republican convention adjourning at 7 o'clock this morning, the Taftites declare that they would hold a rump convention later in the day, and send a contesting delegation to the National convention.

The line-up at adjournment stood thus: Delegates instructed for Roosevelt, 14; Taft, 8; contested, 10; not chosen, 4.

Resolutions were adopted by the convention commanding the delegates-at-large to "use every honorable means to further Theodore Roosevelt's candidacy." The Taftites openly charged the Roosevelt forces with bad faith.

According to their threat, the Taftites later held a rump convention, elected contesting delegates and adopted resolutions condemning Governor Hadley and praising Taft's administration.

The Taftites assert that Governor Hadley, the Roosevelt leader, had agreed before the convention, that delegates would not be instructed. Hadley emphatically denies this. Chairman Morris of the Taft forces, said: "They ran the steam roller over us all right. Now we'll see how the steam roller operates in Chicago."

COMPROMISE ENTERED INTO BEFORE CONVENTION OPENED

The Roosevelt forces were in control when the Republican State convention met at 8:45 last night at the First Regiment Armory. Mayor Frederick H. Kreissman of St. Louis, who was recommended by the state committee as temporary chairman, was endorsed unanimously by the convention, not being opposed by the Roosevelt forces though an ardent Taft worker.

The chances for a troubled meeting were apparently dissipated by a final effort by Chairman Charles D. Morris in the afternoon when he succeeded in getting both sides in the state committee to go into a compromise conference with regard to the contests. The compromise reached gave the Taft forces the temporary organization and the Roosevelt forces control on the temporary roll. Secretary of Commerce and Labor Charles Nagel, for Taft, and Governor Herbert S. Hadley, for Roosevelt, were leaders in the conference.

Roosevelt Pleased
NEW YORK, April 26.—A grin overspread Colonel Roosevelt's features when he was informed of his victory in Missouri. He refused to make any comment. He appeared in fine fettle for his two days' Massachusetts trip beginning this afternoon.

LA FOLLETTE IN SOUTH FOR FOUR DAYS' TOUR

LOS ANGELES, April 26.—Senator Robert M. La Follette arrived here today to begin his four days' tour in Southern California. He declared on his arrival that his health is excellent. He is optimistic.

"I am going to make as strong a California campaign as possible," La Follette declared. "I believe my chances of success here are good. I am particularly anxious to carry California because I believe with the California delegation I will hold the balance of power and can prevent the nomination of Taft or Roosevelt. Had can secure the nomination for myself when it is apparent no one else can be nominated. My health is perfect. I never felt better in my life. The statements that I am ill are untrue, and are made with a purpose by my enemies."

La Follette's baggage failed to arrive here when he did. Desiring to have his suit pressed before he addressed any meetings, he conferred with his managers and retired in disheveled while his friends carried his suit to a tailor.

100 WOMEN IN RIOT

Joined Men Strikers at Canton, O., to Rescue Woman Agitator From Officers

CANTON, O., April 26.—Rioting occurred here Thursday when 100 women, armed with clubs, joined men strikers in an attempt to rescue Mrs. J. Gomboni, arrested by special officers on a charge of being an agitator in the American Brick Company's strike. The officers fired on the crowd. A private detective was wounded when the mob returned the fire.

THIRTY-FOOT SHARK CAUGHT

On Beach at Newport—Question as to Residence of Lee Collins

NEWPORT BEACH, April 26.—A thirty-foot basking shark was brought into port at noon yesterday by the launches Lussin and Ruth. The big shark became entangled in the nets of the Lussin last night off the entrance of Newport Bay and three other fishing boats had to come to her assistance to raise the shark to the surface. Men worked all afternoon taking the nets from the sea monster and towing it ashore, where it is now on exhibition.

City Treasurer Lew H. Wallace has refused to cash the demands on the city treasury bearing the O. K. of Trustee Lee Collins. Wallace is acting on legal advice, there being some controversy as to whether or not Mr. Collins is entitled to his place on the board on account of not being a resident of the city. Collins last year built a fine home on Balboa Island, just outside the city limits, where he has since resided with his wife and daughter. His office, however, is within the city limits and Mr. Collins has claimed that he moved to the island only temporarily for the benefit of his wife's health. At the next meeting of the board on May 6, City Attorney Clyde Bishop will be called on to decide the question of Collins's eligibility.

RESCUED LINEMAN
Brave Doctor Climbed Through a Maze of Charged Wires to Save Electrified Workman

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., April 26.—Five hundred residents of one of the most fashionable sections of New Rochelle watched the rescue of Nicholas Calif, who was shocked by the current in a high tension wire on the New York, Westchester and Boston railroad, near Webster and Madeline avenues.
Dr. Paul B. Fitzgerald, police surgeon of New Rochelle, and Thomas Goochilla climbed the steel upright through a maze of heavily charged wires to reach Calif, and for nearly two hours steadied the injured man on a narrow cross-tree and gave him stimulants until the power was shut off and he was taken to the ground.

MASS MEETING NEXT MONDAY

Orange Citizens to Take Up P. E. Proposal For Railway Extension

Orange News: Whether or not Orange is to go after the Pacific Electric railroad's proposed extension from Santa Ana and attempt to procure right-of-way will be put up to the people at a mass meeting to be called next Monday evening at the Athletic Club. It was decided last evening, after a conference of the committees working on the electric proposition, to call a meeting and put up the railroad's offer directly to the people. The committees will turn over all the information in their possession and ask what action the public desires to take.

A final proposal from the Pacific Electric was presented at last evening's conference, and the committees decided that they had gone as far as they could with the negotiations for building the road. Just what this final proposal is will not be made public until the mass meeting.
It is felt that the critical point in the negotiations has been reached and everyone interested in the electric road is urged to be present at the mass meeting. The meeting is called for 7:30 p.m.

GROWTH OF THE FRUIT BUSINESS
BY FRANCIS JOHN DYER

WASHINGTON, April 21.—(Special to the Register)—Every person of mature years can remember when it was questioned whether fruit could be raised in many localities where it is now staple—for instance, in Kansas, Nebraska and most of the western states. Probably the same doubt once existed as to the suitability of New York for fruit growing—yet western New York is said to be the greatest apple region in the world; as to New Jersey and Delaware, where peaches and other fruits are now so profitable; as to the entire Western Reserve, most of which is so valuable for farming and fruit growing that the prices paid for farming lands would seem fabulous to those pioneers who burned up the black walnut trees to make room for their corn patches. The same doubts existed regarding Washington, Oregon and California, now famed the world over for their apples, prunes, raisins, walnuts, and especially for their oranges and lemons. Regarding the latter especially—lemons—it was many years before the growers, at much cost of time and money, learned what varieties to plant, how to cultivate them, more especially how to cure them for market (for the lemon like the pear must be picked green and cured, always being handled literally with gloves, or "like eggs," as the saying goes), and how to ship them. Then it was found that the fruit could be imported more cheaply than the home producer could grow it. Finally the tariff helped that, and in time it is predicted the state of California alone will be able to supply all of the lemons consumed in the United States, "and then some," and that the price will go so low—it is now dropping—that the foreigner will not find the market tempting except to unload his surplus on it.
In the Early Days
Advertising is an art that has grown but slowly. Some of the old files of newspapers that are kept stored away in the Congressional Library are of the greatest interest because they give, as nothing else can, certain aspects of the times in which they were printed. The House Beautiful has found in one of these old newspapers some quaint little advertisements and among them is one of the little shop where lemons were sold in Boston by John Crosby. He called it "The Basket of Lemons." This was away back in 1769, and Citizen Crosby modestly asserted that his lemons were "as large, in general, as lemons commonly are," and that they were sold "at £4 per hundred, or ten shillings per dozen." That would be from ten to twenty times the present cost. And yet one of the free trade advocates in Congress had the assurance last year to charge publicly that the high cost of living was due to the tariff on lemons.
As to Mr. John Crosby's enterprise in running a five or six line advertisement in 1769, what would he think now to see the growers of oranges and lemons in California spending $150,000 in a single year and the growers in Florida making an expenditure proportionately large, to advertise their wares, and beside that distributing to the consumers in the shape of premiums the entire product of one big silver-ware manufactory?

Fruit for Health
In all ages the eating of fruit has been recognized as an aid to health. Some of the more advanced dieticians advocate the use of fruit and nuts exclusively. The more reasonable plan, however, seems to be to eat "plenty of fruit," and that is the way Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the famed pure food expert, puts it. He believes that everyone should eat fruit—say oranges or apples, and they cost about the same—every day. The nation seems to be following this advice. "It will save doctor's bills," says Dr. Wiley, and who should know better than he? But that is a fundamental fact which everyone should know from experience. It is pretty safe to say that the more fruit people eat, the better the health of the nation will be.
Agricultural Imports
So great is the demand for agricultural imports in this country that our sales abroad are falling off and we are importing large quantities. The recent shipments of potatoes from Ireland are fresh in everyone's mind, and we take considerable shipments from Canada and Mexico. A recent agricultural item in the consular reports states that last year 197,698 crates of tomatoes were shipped to this country from Cuba, besides 41,813 crates of okra, eggplant, peppers, etc. The farmer still has room to expand his market.

EVERYBODY GO TO BIG ORATORICAL CONTEST TO-NIGHT

Santa Ana Urged to Rally to Aid of Southern California
Event at High School

Again the Santa Ana High School presents a plea for a large, enthusiastic and representative audience at the Southern California oratorical contest to be held in the Auditorium of the Santa Ana High School building at 7:45 o'clock. The plea follows:

Tonight comes the big oratorical contest in the high school auditorium. This is a big thing; it is a Southern California affair and it is up to the people of Santa Ana, as well as the students of the high school to back our representative in this contest. The schools in the contest are Long Beach, Huntington Beach, Pasadena, Los Angeles Polytechnic and Santa Ana.

One of the hardest contests that has ever been held under this league, is expected to occur tonight and the people of Santa Ana should be honored in having this contest here. A small admission of 25 cents must be charged as the expense of one of these contests is great.

The students are anxious that the people of Santa Ana attend and show their appreciation of this work. Come tonight and see Dorothy Harding carry off the honors for our own school.

Push Out the Chest

Look at your figure in the next full length mirror you see, says the Woman's World. Nine chances out of ten your chest curves in, your shoulders round like a bow, your stomach protrudes, and your chin is thrust forward like a prizefighter's. Now make an experiment. Take a long breath, push your chest out and hold it to that position. Behold a miracle! Your shoulders straighten till your back is like a line, your stomach retracts, and your chin assumes a position of modest dignity. Now you are standing correctly, and if you place any value at all upon a good appearance you must practice this position until it becomes second nature. Remember that the grand secret is "Push out the chest." The rest of the figure will take care of itself.

You Can't Lose It

"Of course," said the optimist, "if a man gets into the habit of hunting trouble he's sure to find it." "Yes," replied the pessimist, "and if he's so lazy that he always tries to avoid it it will find him. So what's the difference?"—Catholic Standard and Times.

STATE UNIVERSITY ADOPTED BUDGET

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, April 25.—A budget for the University of California for the year beginning July 1, 1912, was adopted by the Board of Regents at their April meeting. It provides for the education of the 5724 students of the University—a registration exceeded by only one other American university—Columbia. While Columbia has an income of over three millions a year, the University of California income is estimated, for the next year, at $1,710,695.05, and this much provide for building operations, the Lick Observatory, the University Farm at Davis, the farmers' institutes and all the varied agricultural and scientific work of the University, as well as for teaching the thousands of students at Berkeley.

From the state comes a little less than two-thirds of the University's income. This includes $406,000 restricted to use for building operations and for agricultural insurance. The United states provides $30,000, mostly for agriculture. From income on endowment, founded partly by the national government and partly by private gift, comes $200,000. Gifts already promised, to be used for current purposes, will bring in $47,000. From sales of agricultural produce at the University Farm, sales of the creamery there, and sales of experimental stations at Berkeley, Whittier, Imperial Valley, Riverside, Santa Monica, etc., and from the tax for the inspection of commercial fertilizers, $91,000 will be received. Fees paid by non-residents of California—for California students tuition is free—and infirmary, gymnasium, and summer session fees, and deposits to cover breakage in the laboratories, etc., will bring in $98,000. From the University Hospital and the medical and dental departments there will receipts of $68,000, and miscellaneous minor receipts will bring the total income to $1,710,695.05.

The income is totally insufficient for the University to meet the valid demands upon it for service to education and science. The year will be begun in the expectation of a deficit, which can be offset only as it has been in the past—by relief to the University budget arising from benefactions of friends of learning and of human progress.

The budget for the next University year makes no departure in the way of establishing new departments. Several professorships left vacant by death or resignation are now filled. Gilbert N. Lewis, now research professor of chemistry in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, eminent in present day investigations as to the nature of force and matter, succeeds the late Willard B. Rising as professor of chemistry, and Harry Wheeler Morse comes from Harvard as lecturer in chemistry. The professorship of music created by a special act of the legislature, is filled by Charles L. Seeger, a young American composer and musician, of long European training. Gilbert Chinard, author of "Le xotisme americain dans la litterature francaise au XVIIe siecle," etc., comes from Brown University as assistant professor of French, a vacancy having been caused by the resignation of Professor Lucien Foulet, who has returned to Europe. S. J. Holmes, '93, formerly a member of the faculty, returns as associate professor of zoology, after thirteen years in the faculties of the University of Michigan and the University of Wisconsin. His books on "The Biology of the Frog" and on animal behavior have won him much repute. He succeeds Professor Harry Beale Torrey, who has been called to head the department of zoology of Reed College in Portland.

IMPRESSIVE LESSONS

Since the presidential campaign opened there have been held in five states presidential preference primaries, in which the people had an opportunity to express by direct vote their preference for the party nominees for president. These five states—North Dakota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Nebraska and Oregon—are all strongly Republican; but President Taft did not carry one of them. He was submitting his claims to just the same sort of a test they will have to be submitted to next November, if he should be the Republican nominee, and his lack of strength with the people was demonstrated so clearly that the result ought to convince his best friends that he is unavailable as a candidate.

Every one of the states named gave a majority for either Roosevelt or La Follette—one of the progressive candidates—as against Taft, the conservative candidate. In North Dakota Taft polled only a little over 1600 votes altogether. In Wisconsin the Taft vote made a little better showing, but was not large enough to be a factor in the situation. In Illinois, Roosevelt defeated Taft more than two to one. In the Nebraska primary the state was swept by Roosevelt, and adding the Roosevelt and La Follette votes, both progressive and anti-Taft, Taft is left with but a small minority of the total Republican vote.

These results are impressive and they demonstrate the weakness of Taft as a party leader and his lack of popularity with the people. Admitting that all Taft's friends say of his administration is true, it has failed to commend itself to the people, and a campaign for his election would be a defensive and uphill one. The party might succeed in electing him but the only hope of doing so would be in case the Democrats made a bad break in their convention. Instead of banking on that, however, the safer plan is to nominate a commanding character like Roosevelt, who will lead his party in a triumphant march to victory.—Riverside Press.

CALIFORNIA NEED HAVE NO FEAR

So long as there is log-rolling, so long will there be tariff tinkering. The worthy principle of protection can be established on a stable basis only through a tariff commission, such as Roosevelt advocates. The tariff board organized under Taft's administration is more or less of a fake, its only competent member, Professor Emery, having himself declared it to be a "joke." It has no powers of compelling production of evidence, and its work lacks authority. What the country demands is protection intelligently administered, and a stability of tariff schedules that will give stability to business.

Protected industries of California need have no concern from an intelligent application of the protective principle. They are entitled to a permanence of tariff arrangement, and it is only through the Roosevelt plan of a commission that they can get it.

DRAINING THE SWAMPS

Resolutions urging the appropriation of $1,000,000 annually until the completion of the Panama Canal and $50,000,000 annually thereafter for reclamation and other purposes have been adopted by delegates from thirty-three states and four foreign countries assembled in New Orleans, La. The resolutions also call for an immediate meeting of the executive committee and officers of the National Drainage Conference.

The United States has spent much money for reclaiming arid lands. Practically no systematic work has been done by the National government toward the reclamation of swamp lands.

The experiment with arid lands has been gratifying. The drainage of swamp lands would give to the people lands as extensive as the State of Missouri and rich as the famed Valley of the Nile. Its effect for health cannot be estimated. The miasma of the swamps poisons life all around.

When the drainage is completed the land will yield a handsome return on cost of the work. Is it not wise, then, to begin systematic reclamation of all swamp lands; and to do it now?

James H. Leggett of Oroville writes to the California Roosevelt headquarters: "While I was getting club signers yesterday ten men digging a trench left their work to come to tell me that although they had registered as Democrats they were going to vote for Roosevelt if he were nominated. Many other workmen asked me for Roosevelt buttons and they pinned them under the lapels of their coats. They said they did not dare wear them in the open for fear of losing their jobs. Every man who voted for Hiram Johnson is going to vote for Roosevelt."

"I want to tell you that Theodore Roosevelt is the greatest living American, and he's in fighting trim."—Interview given by Senator La Follette in June, 1910, after his first visit to Sagamore Hill following Roosevelt's return from Africa.

Results in Illinois, Pennsylvania, Nebraska and Oregon have vindicated the good judgment of Taft's managers in strenuously opposing direct primaries.

Albert H. Elliott of Oakland, writing from Washington, D. C., says he finds "the East is busy politically catching up with the West."

DIRE DISTRESS

It Is Near at Hand to Hundreds of Santa Ana Readers

Don't neglect an aching back. Backache is often the kidneys' cry for help.

Neglect hurrying to the kidneys aid means that urinary troubles may follow.

Or danger of worse kidney trouble. W. N. Nelson, 902 E. Fifth St., Santa Ana, Cal., says: "Six or seven years ago, while living in Pennsylvania, I used Doan's Kidney Pills and was relieved of pains in my back from which I had suffered. Occasionally my back was so painful that I could scarcely turn over in bed. In addition to this, I also had rheumatic pains. The contents of a few boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Dean's Drug Store (now Wheeler & Mater's Drug Store) removed my aches and pains and I have had no cause for complaint since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Sizing Up the Situation

FROM THE FRESNO REPUBLICAN

The Roosevelt result in these states (Oregon and Nebraska) was of course anticipated. The more immediate significance of the results is the definite end they put to the La Follette candidacy—not an important matter nationally, but of considerable importance to California, as the sole remaining state in which La Follette is a candidate. Senator La Follette's candidacy had already ceased everywhere except in these three states of Nebraska, Oregon and California. These were chosen as the ones in which Senator La Follette was strongest. In Nebraska he was distanced. In Oregon he is naturally stronger than anywhere in the United States except in his two home states of Wisconsin and North Dakota. Moreover, in Oregon as in North Dakota, there was no Democratic contest, and the Democrats voted in the Republican primaries for La Follette. Even so, the only effect of his candidacy has been to divide the Progressive vote, and to transform a naturally overwhelming victory for Roosevelt into an artificially close one.

La Follette will not cease to be a candidate, but there has already ceased to be a La Follette candidacy. There is a difference between being a candidate and having a candidacy. Any man can be a candidate, all by himself, for anything, but it takes the support of others to constitute a candidacy. This is the distinction which Senator La Follette has not been able to realize, and personally he will not realize it. But, after a very plucky and brilliant personal campaign, against great physical odds, he is distanced in one and is, even with the help of the Democrats, third in the other of the two states in which he is strongest, the extinction of his candidacy, in any national sense, is visible to everybody. And the result in Oregon shows that the only effect of his candidacy, where it does get any substantial support, is to render the Progressive victory close or doubtful.

The further significance of the vote is naturally the overwhelming defeat of President Taft. This, too, was of course expected. President Taft has, so far, more delegates than any other candidate (though many of these are contested) but he has also been overwhelmingly defeated in every state in which there has been anything approaching a free popular vote. These states are too few directly to control the convention, but they are bound to have an enormous influence on it. Indeed, it has already been given out, in the Taft press, that unless the President can carry Massachusetts and New Jersey, the next presidential preference states, it is hopeless for him to expect to hold the Southern and other steam-roller delegates. The President is of course far stronger in both of these states than he is in the West, and he may carry them. But he did not carry Maine. Massachusetts votes on April 30 and New Jersey on May 28. In the meantime there will be the Colorado state convention, already known to be for Taft, the Delaware, Connecticut, Georgia, South Carolina and Virginia state conventions, the Iowa district and state conventions, the Georgia, Maryland and Ohio old-system primaries, and the California presidential preference primary.

HOW THEY DO IT IN GERMANY

(Contributed By the Industrial Accident Board.)

Efforts have been made to make it appear that the system of compensation for industrial accidents provided by the Roseberry law is more burdensome to employers in California than the German system is to employers in Germany. That such is not the fact, the following condensed review of the German system will show:

Germany is taking care of its toilers literally from the cradle to the grave. One of the growing forms of insurance, to which German employers contribute, is a six weeks' maternity benefit, beginning a little while before and continuing after a German working woman has become a mother. Insurance in Germany also covers accident, unemployment, invalidity and old age, each form having its separate organization and source of income, with the result that poverty of the more desperate sort has practically been banished from the Kaiser's empire.

Insurance against industrial accident is divided into two classes, the first embracing such accidents as do not disable injured persons for more than thirteen weeks and accidents which cause disability for a longer term than thirteen weeks, generally for life.

The care of injured persons for the first thirteen weeks devolves mainly upon sick benefit societies, to one of which every worker must belong and of which there are upwards of 23,000 in Germany. These societies are maintained by an assessment of about 3 per cent upon the wages of the workers, supplemented by one-half as much contributed by the employers, so that the employees contribute two-thirds and the employers one-third of the total amount.

During the first four weeks of this thirteen-week period the injured person receives from his sick benefit society free medical and surgical treatment and half wages. During the following nine weeks he continues to receive from his sick benefit society his half wages and from his particular employer 16 2/3 per cent of his wages in addition thereto. Beginning with the fourteenth week these sources of income are cut off and the employers' association assumes the entire charge and carries it as long as disability lasts, which is generally for life. This industrial life pension runs from 66 2/3 per cent of loss of wages to full wages, according to the seriousness of the injury sustained, and the estimated loss of earning power.

As near as may be calculated, 78 per cent of all industrial injuries recover within the first thirteen weeks. But so slight, relatively, is the cost of caring for injured persons during this period that the compensation falling within this thirteen-week period consumes only from 16 to 25 per cent of the total cost of compensation. In other words, the 22 per cent of workmen disabled for more than thirteen weeks consume from 75 to 84 per cent of the total cost of compensation from date of injury to final recovery or death.

It follows, therefore, that German employers pay into the sick benefit funds considerably more than is drawn out of those funds for the care of the industrially injured during the probationary thirteen-week period, so that German employers not only bear the whole cost of compensation to injured workmen but make also a substantial contribution to the sick benefit fund besides.

The apparent co-operative and contributory features of German administration of workmen's compensation are preserved for the benefit of the morale of industrial Germany. They bring employer and employee together helpfully, which makes for industrial peace and mutual good understanding.

We perceive, therefore, that while, in Germany, employers must contribute to the sick benefit funds of their employees, the Roseberry law requires nothing of the kind of employers in California. In Germany compensation benefits run as long as the injuries last, even for life, while in California they run only until three years' earnings have been exhausted and no longer. In Germany the percentage of loss in wages paid runs from 66 2/3 per cent to full wages in extreme cases. In California the percentage is only 65 at most, and yet under the German system there prosper, as nowhere else in Europe, 5,000,000 of employees great and small, and, in round numbers 25,000,000 workers, among whom are 11,000,000 farmers and farm laborers. Is it reasonable to suppose that a burden which Germany carries so prosperously California industries cannot carry at all?

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the New Drug

An eminent skin specialist recently discovered a new drug, othine—double strength, which is so uniformly successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by Wheeler & Mater under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it fails. Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first night's use will show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely. It is absolutely harmless, and cannot injure the most tender skin.

Be sure to ask Wheeler & Mater for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money back guarantee.

BAND ELECTS OFFICERS

Prepares For Solid Work—Expresses Appreciations M. & M. Efforts Concert Fund

The Santa Ana City Band, which has maintained its organization for so long and which has consistently kept up its practices during the past year, is working with much zeal to reach a high musical standard. That the Santa Ana Band has a recognized standing in Southern California is shown by the fact that it has been engaged to play on May 10 in the Shriner's parade in Los Angeles, on that day.

Last night the band transacted business of importance, among other things electing its officers for the coming season. They are as follows: President, Chester Nuckolls; vice president, Elwin Stearns; secretary and treasurer, R. B. Kelley; business manager, Harry L. Hanson; director, W. Frank Harris. The above officers with E. M. Galbraith and Roy Whittaker, form the board of directors.

The members of the band expressed their appreciation of the efforts taken by the M. and M. in behalf of raising a fund for band concerts through the coming summer season. It is hoped that the citizens of Santa Ana will respond to the appeal of the M. and M. in this respect, as the band concerts for the past two or three years have filled the summer hiatus very delightfully. The stay-at-homes can especially appreciate the music furnished by the band in the quiet season.

Lodge Minstrel Show

A big time is promised at the Fraternal Brotherhood tonight. The entertainment committee is made up of young men of the lodge and they have planned something that is sure to please. It is a minstrel show. The boys have been practicing faithfully and should put up a pretty good entertainment, as all have one or more good-natured jokes. It is sure to be a laugh from start to finish. Members are especially urged to be present and also to bring their friends.

Eminent Instructor Coming

On next Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the high school Parent-Teachers' Association, Dr. Everett C. Beach, director of playgrounds and physical training in the Los Angeles city schools and for two years past occupying a similar position in the University of California at Berkeley, will give an address on "Playgrounds."

The various Parent-Teacher Associations of the grade schools of Santa Ana are asked to co-operate in creating interest in the coming lecture and in securing a good attendance.

Engagement Announced

Miss Maud Powers yesterday afternoon entertained with a luncheon in honor of the announcement of the engagement of her friend, Miss Lenna Myrick, to Mr. Arthur Hamilton of Bakersfield.

Roses were used in the decorations of house and table and the favors were shaped as hearts pierced with a golden arrow. The event was altogether an interesting and charming one.

Besides the hostess and the guest of honor, those present were Mesdames Ball, Ball, Carey, Kroll, Liebig, Richards, Spencer, Adams, Johnson, Myrick.

Whist Party at Beach

The Afternoon Whist Club had a delightful change from the ordinary routine of meetings on last Tuesday. Eight members of the club went to the East Newport cottage of the W. A. Huffs Tuesday afternoon, making the trip in autos. Mrs. Huff made the ladies feel more than at home, and in a marvelously short time a delicious luncheon was prepared, the appetites with which it was greeted rendering it doubly good. After the feast, the ladies played whist. Mrs. Rutherford, taking the first prize with high score. Mrs. Huff was satisfied with the consolation prize. Then to cap the jolly day, came the pleasant ride home, and it was enjoyed to the fullest extent. Those in the party were Mesdames

Mrs. George Barry of Monrovia will be the managing editor, assisted by Mrs. Marthine Dietrichson of Pasadena, who will conduct a special department, "All Around the World," telling what the women of the world are doing to secure citizenship; Mrs. Harriet Gerson, who will edit "The Family Circle," devoted to the relation of the home to civic problems and to a presentation of modern family life; Mrs. D. C. McCann, who will edit the Municipal and Civic Art department. The first edition will appear in June, and Miss Zona Gale will contribute an article on "Ways in Which California Women are expressing themselves on Suffrage." The paper is to have a special legislative department. Clifford Howard of the Evening City Club of Los Angeles, will be the editorial writer.

Personals

Mrs. W. E. Babb arrived here yesterday afternoon from Long Beach, to visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pook, until after Sunday. Mr. Babb will join her here for an over Sunday stay.

Roy Andre, who was taken to the Santa Ana Hospital Wednesday night, suffering from an attack of appendicitis, was able to leave the hospital this morning, the attack being overcome without an operation.

Mrs. A. S. Holbrook, who is critically ill at her home, 318 Orange avenue, is reported as holding her own today, after a fairly comfortable night.

Mrs. R. E. Williams spent today in Los Angeles.

Alan Revill went to Pomona this morning to remain until Saturday.

Miss Cella Cotter went into Los Angeles this morning for the day.

Mrs. Sarah Earhart has returned from a nine months' absence in Northern California, where she visited in many different localities. She went to Long Beach this morning with the Odd Fellows' excursion.

Mrs. A. R. Rowley and Miss Hazel Rowley went to Long Beach today.

Mrs. H. A. Terwilliger is in the city today at the home of her mother, Mrs. M. A. Rowell, and will attend the Wehrly party this afternoon.

Mrs. Will Ritchie is in Los Angeles today.

Miss Virginia Gilbert of Long Beach is a guest at the home of Mrs. A. A. Jones, being a former classmate of Miss Mary Jones. She will remain until after the oratorical contest tonight.

Mr. Peter Dowd of Los Angeles has taken a clerical position in E. S. Gilbert and Company's dry goods store. Mrs. L. E. Butler went to Los Angeles today for a visit with her niece, Mrs. Hyde.

A. J. Crookshank was a morning passenger on an early out-going Los Angeles car.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Liebig were among those attending the Odd Fellows anniversary celebration at Long Beach today.

Mr. and Mrs. John Holt of Tustin went with the jolly crowd of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs to Long Beach today to add in the anniversary celebration.

Chas. Reed and Miss Reed of Nova Scotia, who are wintering in Pasadena, spent several days in Santa Ana with Mrs. Louise Scarborough and Miss Taylor. Mr. Reed and daughter will return East early in May. The fact that Mr. Reed is 83 years of age, makes his trip from far off Nova Scotia, a real event.

W. B. Hervey of Los Angeles spent today in Santa Ana looking after his business interests in this city.

Who's Your Jeweler?

This doesn't seem like a very important question, but when you consider how little the average person knows about jewelry and for how much you have to take your jeweler's word, it appears that it does mean something after all.

And when you consider the amount of work your poor little watch has to do, in the course of a year, and how important it is that it should be right, it gets to be a more serious proposition that it at first seems.

So, if you want to have absolute confidence in your purchases and repairs, be sure that your jeweler's name is

OLYMPIAD GAMES

LOS ANGELES, April 26.—The Los Angeles Athletic Club Wednesday sent the council a communication urging that body to approve a resolution recently adopted by the club to the effect that an effort should be made at once looking toward the securing of the Olympiad Games for Los Angeles in 1916.

The club calls attention to the fact that these meets are held only once every four years; that the next meet will be held in Stockholm, Sweden, this coming June, and that Los Angeles should lose no time in trying to secure the 1916 meet if possible, as it will be a great international event.

IN THE JUSTICE'S COURT

HOPES THAT RUIZ WILL GET OVER IT

"I hope he gets well, for I didn't intend to kill him," said William E. Wheeler when arraigned in justice's court this morning on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill Bernard Ruiz. Ruiz is in the Santa Ana Hospital. Today his condition was not encouraging.

Wheeler's preliminary examination was set for May 23, and his bond was fixed at $2500.

Wheeler says he shot Ruiz at Los Alamitos only after Ruiz, seeking a fight, followed him and started to fight.

Economy vs. Quality

Some men imagine they are economical in their dress when in reality they are only low priced.

Take for instance a suit of clothes. The economical (?) inclined man will pay $15.00 for a suit and before the season is over finds he must buy a second $15.00 suit and even then he has ill-fitting uncomfortable clothes. The man that insists on quality goes to a good tailor, pays $25.00 to $35.00 for a perfect fitting, stylish suit that will last two seasons and still look well.

No man will question the fact that it pays to buy good clothes.

Most of the best dressers of Santa Ana and vicinity have learned that the place to get really dependable suits is LUTZ & CO., EXCLUSIVE TAILORS.

You will find on our tables the best productions of the most celebrated foreign and domestic makers. Martin's English worsteds and serges, Scotch Heather Tweeds and Homespuns, Irish Shannon and Blarney Tweeds, Connemara and Harris hand-woven tweeds, French Silk Mixtures, Flannels and various others, ranging in prices from $25.00 up.

Away back in the seventeenth century, when all this fair California land was under Spanish domination, when things were done on a lavish scale and acres were measured by nothing less than thousands, a grant of 50,000 acres in what is now the northern part of Orange county was made by the Spanish government to one Juan Ontiveros. This land, even in the days when little was thought of values, was considered so particularly worthless that it was given the name of "Rancho Peor Es Nada," or "Worse-than-Nothing."

Today a large part of that one-time worthless ranch is occupied by the world-famous Placentia orange growing section, unrivaled for the quality and quantity of its product, the richness of its soil, the beauty of its comfortable homes and well kept ranches.

This transformation, marvelous as it was, has been paralleled recently by the magic which, in little more than a year's time, has placed a busy, substantial and prosperous town where before were barley fields and pasture lands—a town which shows today the ear-marks of a coming city, and which is a stunning surprise to those citizens of Orange county who see it for the first time.

A Magic Growth
It is safe to estimate that not more than one person out of twenty-five, even in this county, has any adequate conception of the growth which has been made by the town of Placentia since the town-site was laid out a year and three months ago. People have long known that in the center of the wide area known as Placentia there was a tiny hamlet bearing the same name, made up principally of a schoolhouse and a store. But since the coming through that section of the main line of the Santa Fe railroad, there has sprung into being, with such rapidity that even its promoters were astonished, a thriving town which for its size does probably more business than any other in the county, which is made up of attractive and substantial buildings, which has all the conveniences of urban life and which has an atmosphere of progress and prosperity most promising for the future.

In the early days of the orange industry in Southern California the peculiar and striking advantages enjoyed by the Placentia section were quickly recognized. Some peculiar attribute of soil or climate, or both, found only in a very limited area, produced a quality of orange not known elsewhere. Prices of land rose by leaps and bounds, orchard after orchard was laid out, and gradually a thickly-settled community arose, the distinguishing feature of which were beautiful ranches and comfortable homes. The wealth, prosperity and culture of the Placentia district have been proverbial for years.

But the section lacked transportation facilities. No railroad ran through it, and it was necessary to haul fruit to the packing houses at Fullerton and Anaheim, each several miles away. All supplies had to be hauled in. Travel to and from the district was restricted. For years the residents labored under these disadvantages, always averse to every chance to secure a railroad.

Then the Santa Fe decided to build a cut-off between Richfield and Fullerton, shortening its main line to San Bernardino and the East by several miles. This cut-off ran through the heart of the Placentia district. Some of the progressive residents of the section recognized the opportunity and organized a company which laid out a town-site along the railroad, about half a mile from what was formerly known as Placentia. From the first the growth of the new town was rapid. All around it is a prosperous and well-settled country, with no convenient trading point. Business men looking for new opportunities recognized the splendid prospects of the new town, and business after business was started. Buildings were put up as rapidly as possible, but there was not enough to supply the demand, and there are not enough today.

What Placentia Has
The Placentia of today has five fruit packing houses, a national bank, a $5000 ladies' club house, a weekly newspaper, a well-equipped garage, two grocery stores, a hardware store, a drug store, a lumber yard, two restaurants, two rooming-houses, a shoe store, meat market, bakery, livery stable, billiard and pool hall, blacksmith shop, barber shop, and a few smaller establishments.

Placentia has all the important public service features of a city. It has a complete water system, the supply coming from a splendid well over 400 feet deep, from which a pumping plant sends the water to a tank on the hill north of the town, this elevation giving a pressure which is more than sufficient for all purposes of distribution as well as fire pressure. Water is piped to all parts of the town. A six-inch main carries the supply from the pumping station to the tank. Electric current supplied by the Edison Company furnishes the town with lights, with which most of the houses are equipped. The telephone system is connected with the Fullerton exchange of the Pacific system. Cement sidewalks are laid on the business streets, and others are in contemplation.

One of the first features which strikes the visitor to the town is the substantial character of the buildings, none of the flimsy construction so common in new towns being shown. Many of the business structures are of brick, and those built of frame show solid construction. A two-story brick is now nearing completion, the lower floor to be used for a store and the upper for a rooming-house. Excavation is now being made for a business structure of brick, with plate glass and pressed brick front, which will contain three store rooms. The owner of the Baker hotel has made plans for doubling the size of his present building, which at present is insufficient to meet the demand for accommodations.

Buildings in Great Demand
In fact, one of the things which has worried Placentia has been the inability of the town to keep up with the demand for buildings, both for residence and building purposes. From its start the town has been the center of remarkable business activity. The coming of the railroad was immediately followed by the institution of Placentia as the shipping point for that entire section, which is expected to send out 1200 cars of oranges during the present year. As has been said, there are now five packing houses, the largest belonging to the Placentia Orange Growers' Association, an organization which has been in existence for several years, and which handles a large quantity of fruit yearly. Another is used by the Mutual Association, and there are three independent concerns. Placentia is different from most orange growing sections in that it is actively supplying the year round. The section is most widely known as the home of the Valencia, but it raises a large quantity of navels, some strains of which are not put out until April. One of the packing houses is now busily engaged in winding up the navel output, and a striking illustration of the insufficient supply of houses in the town is the fact that every morning this concern hauls from Fullerton a two-horse wagon loaded with workers, taking them back each evening. Many of these workers would live in Placentia but for the fact that sleeping accommodations which are not small, are constantly taxed to the limit.

Following the navels, of which the last are now going out, will come the St. Michaels and Sweets, of which not a few are raised in the Placentia district. These will last until June, by which time the shipping of Valencias will be in full swing. Placentia's own particular specialty is the Valencia Late, the kind which remains on the trees until November, and which no other section seems to produce satisfactorily. These will keep the shipping industry active until the navels come in again. The fact that this little town will send out during the year 1200 cars of oranges, an average of considerably more than three for every fruit in the year, illustrates the magnitude of the industry and the importance it gives the town as a business point. It is a fact which has never been disputed that the Placentia district is the largest, and most productive area devoted to Valencia oranges in the world.

As An Oil Shipping Point
Another industry which promises to be of great importance to the future of the town is that of oil shipments. The Anaheim Union Water Company, which owns a large tract to the north of the town now under lease to the Amalgamated Oil Company, has recently completed the building of a pipe line from the oil fields to Placentia, where storage tanks are now being erected. The first cars of oil were shipped out from the new station this week. The company built the pipe line for the handling of its royalty oil, which it disposes of in the market, but expects to handle the oil of other shippers through the line, which has a capacity of 20,000 barrels every 24 hours. Already some of the large operators in the Olinda field have endeavored to buy an interest in the pipe line, but this has been refused. Transportation facilities from the field have not been adequate in the past, and there is no doubt that the pipe line will be taxed to its capacity and that Placentia will be an important shipping station for this commodity.

The town of Placentia is particularly well situated for a business point, in that it has surrounding it a large population for which no other trading point is convenient. To the northeast two and a half miles away is the recently opened Yorba Linda section, where more than 100 homes have been built in the past two years, and which is rapidly growing. To the east is Yorba, to the north the oil fields, and all around the town-site is the thickly settled and highly prosperous Placentia country. The volume of business exhibited by the town today is a source of astonishment to the visitor.

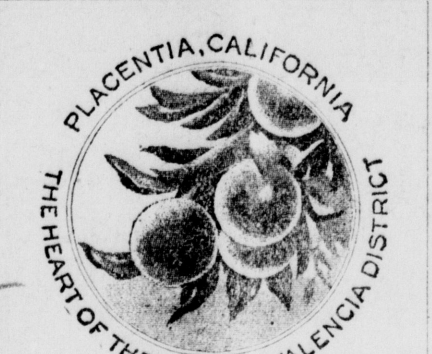

Opportunities Are Many
Placentia today offers exceptional opportunities to the investor, the business man, the home-seeker or the working man. Property values in the town are advancing rapidly, but they have a much greater advance ahead of them. Of the original building lots laid out in the townsite all have been sold, with the exception of possibly half a dozen. Just to the west of the business section, however, and in most desirable location, are several blocks which were originally laid out in acre tracts, and these are now being subdivided into building lots. Property in the business section has shown an advance of practically fifty per cent since the town was started. As an illustration, two 25-foot business lots, which were bought some months ago for the townsite company for $1000, sold a few days ago for $1450. Residence lots are also showing a steady upward trend, and for the man who wants to invest in urban property and await certain returns Placentia offers an opportunity which cannot be excelled. There are no boom features about the town, but a steady growth in values which is the result of actual demand.

The business man who gets in "on the ground floor" at Placentia has a sure harvest in store, for the business of the town is undoubtedly in its infancy. The town has a remarkably progressive set of merchants, representing all the staple lines, but there are good openings now for the man who has the qualifications and the application necessary to get a new business going. Among the greatest needs, of which frequent mention is made by the citizens, are a well-equipped dry goods store and a clothing store, or the two combined. The man who knows his business and who establishes himself in that line in the town now, can rest assured that his business will grow into splendid proportions in the course of the next few years, for it is a fact as demonstrable as a mathematical proposition that Placentia is going to grow, and grow fast.

Another need which is keenly felt in the town is that of a practicing physician, for whom a large territory is waiting. The town has a well equipped prescription drug store, but the people have to go miles to get their prescriptions. It is easily apparent that a physician could establish a lucrative practice in a very short time. There is also abundant room for a dentist.

Openings for Investment
In the matter of small houses the demand is largely in excess of the supply, and the man who will go into the town now and erect a few comfortable, but moderate priced houses for sale or rental purposes will reap a rich harvest. Every available house is now eagerly snapped up, and owing to the limited supply, rentals reach a rather stiff figure. One man who has a lot which he wanted to utilize put up a small house a few months ago at a cost of $175, and has been renting it ever since at $10 a month. Everything in the way of rooms is full, and one man who has a block in the center of town admits that it is bringing him a return of 15 per cent on fifty per cent more than the cost.

Placentia needs more laboring men and ranch hands, to occupy these buildings as fast as they are put up. At present, it is said, fully 100 Mexicans come daily from Anaheim and Fullerton by wheel or rig, to work on the neighboring ranches. This labor is not satisfactory, but the ranchers take it because they cannot get sufficient white help. The able-bodied man who will come to Placentia and live can earn his $2 per day or even more on the surrounding ranches—practically the year round.

Marvelous Postal Growth
The banking and postal transactions of a town are always taken as reliable indices of its prosperity, and in this respect Placentia shows up well. The Placentia National Bank was organized six months ago by some of the progressive citizens of the section, with a capital of $30,000. For two months it was compelled to occupy temporary quarters while its handsome pressed brick home was being completed, and for that reason was under some disadvantages at the start. When the last statement was made to the Controller of the Currency it showed total resources of $119,000. Its deposits at present are about $80,000, but they are growing rapidly, and there is good reason to expect that inside a year they will pass the $200,000 mark. The bank handles a large amount of general business, and its handsome banking room is a busy place.

The Placentia postoffice was established April 24, 1911, with Jesse B. Payne as postmaster. From the first its business grew rapidly, and for the last quarter, ending March 31, 1912, the receipts showed the astonishing gain of 500 per cent over the preceding quarter. These figures speak as can nothing else of the rapid business growth of the town. Petitions are now being circulated for the establishment of two rural routes from this office, and there is strong hope that they will be granted in the near future.

The Pride of Placentia
The esthetic side of life is not neglected in Placentia. One of the chief matters of pride among the citizens is the $5000 club house of the Round Table, an organization composed of fifty representative ladies of the section. Situated in a commanding position on the brow of a low rise north of the town, the building commands a fine view of the surrounding territory, and forms an ornament which is visible from all directions. Inside the building is handsomely finished and equipped with every convenience. It has a large assembly room with adequate stage, which can be used either for meetings or entertainment, banquet kitchen, reception rooms, etc. The building is not only an ornament to the town but a credit to the enterprising ladies whose energies are responsible for its erection.

The Placentia school district has now in course of construction a new grammar school building, which will cost, when completed, about $38,000, and will be one of the handsomest in the county. It is to be in the moderate style, of substantial construction, and is expected to be of sufficient size to meet the needs of the district for some years to come. Placentia is also a member of the Fullerton Union High School district, with a splendid high school located three miles away, the Santa Fe railroad and good highways offering abundant transportation facilities.

The residences of the town are notable for their soundness of construction and artistic design, there being little of the cheap, makeshift architecture which characterizes many small towns. The town already has a large number of residences and many others are to be built in the near future.

Placentia is a good town to visit and an excellent town to stay in. This is emphasized by the number of men who have come to look and remained to invest. And the prospective investor will receive nothing but encouragement from these.

MODERN DRUG STORE OFFERS GOOD SERVICE

One of the essentials of a thriving town is a well-stocked and well-handled drug store, and in this respect Placentia is fortunate. Last November A. J. Robinson, a graduate pharmacist of years of experience, came through Southern California looking for a suitable location. He stopped off at the then very young town of Placentia, but a brief investigation as to the possibilities of the town convinced him that it had a future, and he decided to locate. He secured a lease on the corner room in the Murray block, in the heart of the business district, where he now has a handsomely appointed drug store carrying all the lines ordinarily handled in such a house, and well-adapted to the needs of Placentia.

Besides compounding prescriptions accurately and promptly, Mr. Robinson carries all the standard drugs, druggists' sundries, stationery, periodicals, cigars, etc. He has an attractive and completely supplied soda fountain, which is at all times a popular place of resort with the residents. The interior of this store, with its modern furnishings and well-displayed stock, presents a pleasing appearance and ordinarily a busy scene.

Mr. Robinson has confidence in the future of Placentia both because of its location and the fact that it has "the goods." He has established himself with his family in a comfortable home in the town, and expects to stay there and reap the benefits which will come with increased population. Being an enterprising and discerning merchant, he will see that the growth of his store keeps pace with the growth of the town.

PLACENTIA NATIONAL IS WELL-EQUIPPED BANK

First in importance among the business establishments of Placentia probably comes the Placentia National Bank, which occupies a handsome two-story pressed brick structure on one of the chief business corners. When the town began to assume business importance it was at once recognized that a bank would be a decided necessity, and a corporation was organized by some of the prominent capitalists of the section, with A. S. Bradford, for many years a leading orange grower, and a man of large affairs, as president. The capital stock was placed at $30,000, and was all quickly taken. The bank started operations in temporary quarters, but no time was lost in starting the comfortable home which it now occupies. This was completed about four months ago, and since then the business of the institution has steadily grown.

Thos. Barry, a leading business man, is vice president of the institution, and E. C. Hazzard is cashier. The directors are A. Pierotti, Samuel Kraemer, A. S. Bradford, Wm. Crowther, Thos. E. Barry and E. C. Hazzard, all among the best known and most substantial residents of the section. The bank transacts all branches of banking business, and is an exceedingly busy place in the handling of large financial transactions which are resultant from the exceeding productivity of the region.

The bank now has deposits of about $80,000 and total resources of $120,000. It has proved a factor of inestimable value in the development of this rich section, and has every reason to look forward toward becoming one of the large financial institutions in the country. With a thoroughly competent and accommodating staff of officials, it handles the business of the section in most satisfactory manner.

PLACENTIA'S LEADING REAL ESTATE DEALERS

The realty firm of Payne & Moore are resident tract agents for the Placentia Townsite Company and do a general real estate business. Listed for sale with them, are many of the best orange, walnut and deciduous groves and other acreage for all purposes, in this section.

They offer Placentia business lots at from $400 up; residence lots from $175 up. Two big income propositions now offered by this firm at a price below their value. Both are orange groves in first-class condition and either of them will bear the closest investigation. Anyone wishing to buy an orange grove should not overlook this chance, as owners are forced to sell. For information regarding Placentia property write or see the above named firm.

A TOWN WITH A PRESENT NO LESS THAN A FUTURE

Exceptional Opportunities Offered For The Investor, Business Man, Home-seeker or Working Man

THE PLACENTIA GARAGE AND AUTO AGENCY

No town, large or small, nowadays can boast of being up-to-date without its garage, and in this respect Placentia is well represented, by P. J. Weissel and Company, owners of the Placentia garage.

Their building of corrugated iron is 40x120 feet with cement floor, affording commodious storage room for cars. It is equipped with machinery for doing all kinds of automobile repairing and is in charge of competent machinists who know how to do the work. They carry auto supplies, oils and gasoline and are agents for E. M. F. Flanders, Kissel Kar and Stoddard-Dayton automobiles.

WELL-EQUIPPED LIVERY AND TRANSFER BARN

The driving public will find Placentia is amply prepared to meet any demands for that means of travel. The Star Livery Barn of which O. M. Schaller is proprietor is prepared to furnish rigs with or without drivers, either for business or pleasure on a few moments' notice. The barn has a full equipment of rigs of all kinds and as good driving horses as can be found in any first-class livery. In addition they run a general transfer and express line. The Star barn is located on Main street just south of the bank building.

HARDWARE STORE WILL BUILD NEW ADDITION

The Placentia Hardware Store, of which T. W. Hill is the proprietor, carries a large stock of practically everything in the hardware line. Heavy and shelf hardware, builders' hardware, tools, paints and oils, and has in addition a plumbing and tinshop. The present large business room occupied by the store has already been outgrown and an additional room will soon be built by Mr. Hill on the adjoining lot, when a stock of farm and orchard implements will be added to his other lines.

FLOURISHING GROCERY AND DRY GOODS STORE

One of the largest grocery stores in the county is that of Payne and Moore of Placentia. This firm has its place of business on the principal corner of the town opposite the Placentia National Bank and carry everything in the grocery line, also a good line of shoes, dry goods and furnishing goods. In their store is located the postoffice, Mr. Payne, the senior member of the firm, being the postmaster. At present their main store room is 28x100 feet, though a new forty foot addition is soon to be built to meet the demands for more room. This firm is in the enjoyment of a flourishing business that is rapidly increasing.

GIBBS LUMBER COMPANY AN IMPORTANT FACTOR IN PLACENTIA'S GROWTH

One of the business concerns of Placentia that has contributed very largely to the rapid building of the town is the Gibbs Lumber Company, who by keeping constantly on hand a large stock of building materials have made it possible for builders to get on short notice practically everything wanted in their line. They carry a large stock of lumber of all kinds and also supply anything wanted in mill work. Lime, cement, plaster and brick are also handled by this firm. Mr. Cline, the accommodating manager of the lumber company, is a thorough lumber man who knows every detail of the business and who is never too busy to do anything that will be for the general good of Placentia and in this he has the hearty support of the company.

PACKING HOUSES SHIPPING FRUIT

The Tustin Packing Company expects to ship three cars of fruit this week. The Tustin Hills Citrus Association has been quite busy all week, and has been averaging three cars daily. They expect to finish for the season by Saturday night. All the packers from the exchange expect to go to Corona Monday to pack at Judge Call's exchange.

Sold His Interest
Mr. Dargatz has sold his interest in the meat market to his partner, J. C. Gerard. Mr. Dargatz left for San Francisco Thursday on a visit, and expects to be away for about a month.

Miss Florence Stone has purchased the Emory place on D street and will make considerable improvement in the near future.

A. D. Turner is building a new home near Red Hill.

Medal Contest
The silver medal contest given under the auspices of the W.C.T.U. at El Modena Tuesday night, was largely attended by Tustin people. While Miss Beatrice Dunnack of El Modena won the medal, Millard Foster, Mildred Fowell and Irene Grizette, all of Tustin, were close seconds. The whistling solo rendered by Miss Burns was greatly enjoyed. The hall was crowded and all present expressed themselves as highly entertained.

Hoefler; vocal solo, "When Song Is Sweet," by Mrs. J. C. Stearns. Refreshments of ice cream and delicious cakes made by the hostess, and fruit punch were served. Club members present were: Mrs. Chas. Johnson, Mrs. Ella Smith, Mrs. Geo. Pollard, Mrs. Poole, Mrs. Fuller, Mrs. Arthur Hoefler, Mrs. Morehead, Mrs. Skinner, Mrs. Chas. Artz, Mrs. J. C. Stearns. Guests of the club were Mrs. Davis, Mrs. McElree and Miss Clara Wells, all of Santa Ana.

Coreopsis Club
The Coreopsis Club met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Frank Stearns. A delightful time was spent with music and embroidery work, with refreshments at the close. Those present were: Mrs. Tuttle, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. McCarrill, Mrs. Lambert, Mrs. McDonald, Miss Jennie McDonald, Mrs. J. C. Stearns, Mrs. Hardesty, Mrs. Artz, Mrs. Mann, Mrs. House and Mrs. Engle. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Swartz.

Missionary Society
The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the Advent church met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Cade on Fifth street, Santa Ana. Mrs. W. L. Shatto gave an interesting report on the Advent Christian conference in Los Angeles two weeks ago, and Mrs. Richardson gave a very helpful Bible reading on Bible women.

Entertains Friends
Mrs. J. C. Stearns delightfully entertained Saturday night in honor of Mr. Davis of Wichita, Kas. Music and games constituted the program of the evening, with delicious refreshments, including hot biscuits, at the close.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Roy I. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Rockefeller, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Artz, Miss Gwendolyn Artz, Miss Anna Payne, Sam Naw, Mr. Dakin, and Mr. and Mrs. Nordstrom.

Birthday Dinner
Miss Mary Collar gave a birthday dinner Sunday evening. The table decorations of white roses and ferns were very tastefully arranged. Among many other presents she received was a beautiful pair of gold embroidery scissors presented by the assembled guests.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Jack, Mr. and Mrs. Mc Cullum, Mr. and Mrs. Horton, and Messrs. Forest and Ralph Collar.

Tustin W. C. T. U.
The Tustin W.C.T.U. met at the hospitable home of the president, Mrs. A. L. Shatto. A goodly number were present and an interesting meeting was held.

The meeting was opened by the singing of temperance songs, one of them composed by an Orange county woman, "No Saloons for Orange County," by Mrs. Mary E. Hill. Mrs. Shatto followed with scripture reading and Mrs. Spence led in prayer.

Mrs. Spence gave a report on the work she and her able assistants had done among foreigners and she felt that the outlook was most encouraging.

The books ordered at the last meeting for the study of "Civics" were on hand, and this branch of woman's education will now be taken up.

Reports from the county convention held at Anaheim were then given by those attending, and proved very interesting. Also it seemed to add new life and determination to do better and more efficient service the ensuing year. The hospitality of the Anaheim union was much commented upon. The Tustin union feels it has reason to be proud of the report of its work at the convention, and expects to keep up the record.

The subject of the meeting being "Franchise," Mrs. Harry Lewis read a good paper on "If I Were a Woman in 1912," written by Judge Ben B. Lindsey. The meeting then adjourned to meet in two weeks at the home of Mrs. A. L. Shatto.

TUSTIN PERSONALS
Mr. H. W. Davis of Wichita, Kas., who has been visiting Mrs. J. C. Stearns, left for his home Monday.

Marcy Burgess was in Los Angeles Wednesday on business. Mrs. Frank Stearns, J. H. Stearns and Mrs. Engle spent Thursday at San Joaquin ranch, the guests of Mrs. J. H. Holford.

Mrs. S. L. Vinson went to Los Angeles Saturday and stayed over until Monday, visiting friends. Mrs. Bliss, wife of Governor Bliss of Michigan, spent Saturday with Mrs. Dr. Spence.

Miss Mildred Pierce of Los Angeles is visiting with Mrs. Gowdy.

Miss Place of Pennsylvania, is spending a week with the Hatfields. Frank Stearns spent Wednesday in Los Angeles on business.

Rev. Richardson will leave Saturday for Colton and will preach at the Advent church there Sunday.

Miss Burns and Miss Doherty left Friday to spend the week end in Los Angeles.

Rev. Forsy recently from England, now pastor of the Colton Advent church will preach at the Advent church here Sunday.

GILLETT TOURS COUNTY FOR TAFT

He Spends Most of His Time
Attacking Progressive Leader,
Roosevelt

STUTSMAN WAS CHAIRMAN HERE

Ex-Congressman From Indiana is Accompanying the Ex-Governor

J. N. Gillett, former governor of California, made three speeches in Orange County yesterday, one at Fullerton, one at Anaheim and one at Huntington Beach, this afternoon, at Santa Ana. Accompanying him as a speaker is Alexander Hardy of Los Angeles, a former congressman of Indiana. In each of the places the speeches made are about the same as made at the other places. The Santa Ana meeting was held at Spurgeon's Hall. The attendance was not large.

O. M. Robbins, president of the Santa Ana Taft Club, opened the meeting. He said that he had gone back over his files of the Outlook and has found that Roosevelt as a young man gained fame for himself as an opponent of a third term for Grant. Judge A. H. Stutsman of Tustin was introduced as chairman for the evening.

Judge Stutsman said that if the state of Iowa, where modern progressivism thrives, cannot refuse to give Taft a second term, he has hopes California will do likewise.

"Some things about this campaign are ludicrous," said he. "North of Mason and Dixon's line, Roosevelt says he is the successor of Lincoln. South of the line he compares himself to Andrew Jackson, and asks for votes on that score."

Ex-Governor Gillett in his opening remarks said that Orange County's people look well contented for a people who do not rule.

"You did not know that the people do not rule this country," said he. "But if we believe our opponents, who are seriously making a campaign on that statement, you do not rule yourself. Why, the people have always ruled, and they always will."

"Congress was being charged with being under the corporations and the Supreme Court under the control of the trusts," he said, "but it is by the statutes that Congress is known and by its decisions that the court is known. Who passed the Sherman anti-trust law? Who passed the Interstate Commerce Act? Who passed the postal savings bank law, and any others like them?" he asked. "Was it the corporations or the people?" He declared that Taft had faithfully kept his pledges and that the people of California, and especially of Southern California, should show him their realization of his friendship for them.

"Taft keep his pledge in the tariff matter, by a revision of eight per cent, which the men elected to congress thought sufficient. We have a surplus in the treasury instead of a deficit. The people of the land are well satisfied and prosperous, but by over-confidence we may see a repetition of 1892, for the Republicans not only have to fight the Democrats but also the insurgents."

"Only a few weeks ago," he said, "lemons were placed on the free list. Is there any reason to believe that the same hands that placed them there will not reach out and place oranges on the free list, too? Every time the question of putting sugar on the free list came up in Congress the progressives voted with the Democrats to a man to put it there. Among those who did so was a Congressman from this part of the state. One morning he woke up to find that lemons were on the free list. He went to his Democratic and fellow-progressive friends and said: 'I've been working with you boys, now help me and don't put lemons on the free list.' They laughed at him, and handed him a lemon."

"Oranges are in danger, and yet there are people in this section trying to defeat for president the man who said at Riverside that he would veto any bill that put oranges on the free list."

I went to Washington with a committee to work for the exposition at San Francisco, against New Orleans. Taft was friendly to California, and he sent for men to come to him to talk on that subject, and by that a lost cause was won. I will do what I can for Taft, because he is a friend of California."

Concerning Taft, let me quote what Roosevelt said of him: 'He will do wrong for no man, and therefore can be trusted by all men.'

"The biggest trust in the world is the steel trust. In the panic of 1907 there was a conversation with Roosevelt when Roosevelt gave the trust permission to buy the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company. The subsequent investigation caused the filing of a bill of equity against the steel trust in which four pages are devoted to the Tennessee company transaction and in which Roosevelt's name is mentioned."

"In the Outlook Roosevelt declared that the steel trust was all right and his statement to that effect was made before the Stanley investigating committee. Now, is it reasonable to suppose that if Roosevelt is nominated and elected he will continue to press a suit in which he is implicated and have the concern that he has declared to be 'all right,' pronounced by the courts to be illegal, unlawful and in violation of law? And will he, true to his friendship for the steel trust, take the bit in his teeth and have the action dismissed?

"You Americans can think that out. When they try to tell me that the trusts are back of Taft, I ask if it is possible that the trusts will back a man who is prosecuting them civilly and criminally."

"Roosevelt will find it easier to break his party than to break the old custom against the third term. That custom is a wise and just one. Taft is entitled to a second term. His hat is not in the ring but his heart is at the firesides of the people of this land."

Hardy Speaks
Alexander Hardy was the last speaker. He made an appeal for support for Taft on the ground that he is a sane and safe statesman. He attempted to ridicule Roosevelt's African trip.

"As to conservation," said he, "I believe in living well and let future generations take the same chances you did. Coal? What are you paying for coal? Pinchot says not to touch that vast store of coal in Alaska. Taft says lease those fields and get the coal into use, and make it cheaper for the users today."

New Business Building to Go
Up on West Fourth; Many Other Projects

The chief feature of interest in the local building situation at present, and one which speaks well for the growth and prosperity of the city, is the number of residences which are being erected for rental or sale purposes. For months past there has been complaint that, despite the rapid increase in houses, there were not enough residences for rent to supply the demand. This condition has been taken advantage of by some of the wide-awake investors of the city, and now in various sections bunches of houses are going up which will be put on the market. The fact that every one of these houses is snapped up as soon as offered is strong evidence of the rapid manner in which the city is growing.

O. L. Bergen, well known contracting builder, is now engaged in the construction of three comfortable frame bungalows on his property in the southwestern part of the city, facing First and Walnut streets. These will cost in the neighborhood of $1500 each, and will be finished with all modern conveniences.

H. C. Humphrey, who has in the past few months put up a number of houses for the market on his property at Eleventh and Bush streets, has now under construction a pretty 5-room bungalow, and will shortly start the construction of several others on Bush and Eleventh streets.

P. A. Robinson & Son, who built up almost a new section of the city on Bush and Spurgeon streets, north of Washington, have branched out and are now at work on four new modern bungalows at the corner of Washington and Van Ness avenues. These houses will be put on the market for sale. This firm is devoting its entire attention to the building and selling of houses, and in speaking of the matter this morning Mr. Robinson said they find an immediate sale for all the moderate priced houses they put up. "You can sell ten of the medium-priced, modern houses," said Mr. Robinson, "to one high-priced structure. The people who are coming here want comfortable homes, but at a reasonable figure. They are coming all the time, and they are going to keep on coming."

Many Plans Maturing
All the building trades are busy now, and there are no indications of an easing in the situation. On the contrary, many prospective builders are busy with plans which promise to develop in the near future. Building permits for the past week totaled $12,540, and included seven residences, mostly of good class.

John Ayas is making plans for the erection of a brick business building on the lot just east of the Richelieu Hotel, where three wooden shacks were burned a week ago. The details have not been worked out as yet.

Roof is going on for the new garage and office building being erected by a syndicate at Sixth and Main, and expectation is that it will be occupied early in June. Rapid progress is being made on the Remsburg block at Fifth and Bush, and it is to be ready for use by June 1.

Contractor Charles Carey this week started work on a very handsome bungalow to be erected for Mrs. S. C. Halsell at 401 Hickey street. This house, which is in a section where several handsome homes have been put up recently, will cost $3500.

TO BUILD GARAGE WITH THE MATERIAL

The soda factory buildings at Aliso station which for a number of years have stood as a monument to a defunct enterprise, have been wrecked by their recent purchaser, C. Y. Martin and a portion of the materials will be used by Mr. Martin in a garage building.

Mr. Martin has taken a lease on lots at 601 East Fourth street, for a term of years, and will soon begin the erection of a garage building on one of them.

Improvements at Huntington Beach

Huntington Beach News: Many of the local business men are making improvements in their stores and offices, preparatory to the large summer business expected and there is little doubt that their hopes of increased trade will be realized.

The First National Bank has recently improved its banking rooms and these are now extremely attractive.

They are fitted up in metropolitan style and not only the needs of the bank officers have been consulted in the changes made but also the convenience of its patrons. The force has been increased by the addition of Miss Mabel Birch of Eagle Rock.

The real estate offices of Thomas B. Talbert & Company in the Collins block will be fitted up this month to accommodate the growing business of the firm. The front or public office will be separated by a neat railing from the private offices, of which there will be two, in the rear portion of the building. Other improvements will include the carpeting of the floor and the decoration of the walls.

LA HABRA GROVE BRINGS $50,000

31-Acre Citrus Fruit Ranch Changes Hands at 20 Times Price Paid 6 Years Ago

Fullerton Tribune: One of the largest recent realty transfers is the sale of the 31-acre orange and lemon ranch in the La Habra valley, owned by Will Siever, to William Espolt, a Whittier capitalist and rancher, for a consideration of $50,000. This is nearly twenty times the price paid for it six years ago.

This deal illustrates the advance of ranch property in this vicinity within the last few years. The ranch was purchased six years ago by E. W. Lawrence for $2700. At the time no water had been developed and the land was used for hay entirely.

Later water was developed and the land set to Valencia oranges and lemons.

Two years ago the property was transferred from Lawrence to Will Siever and William Espolt, the price being $2400. Later Espolt disposed of his interest to Siever, and the past week decided to purchase the entire ranch.

HARGRAVES RANCH SOLD TO AYERS

Orange News: Dutton Brothers closed a deal yesterday in which Y. Ayres of this city purchased the walnut grove belonging to R. M. Hargraves, of North Main street, Santa Ana. The orchard consists of eight acres of fine walnuts and is said to have brought a handsome figure.

IMPROVEMENT AT THE ORANGE WATER WORKS

Orange Post: Work on the new reservoir at the city water works is progressing nicely. The excavating was finished last week and the forms set for the footings of the circular wall. This week the mixing and the placing of the cement in the forms has been begun and is well under way.

Last Saturday the trustees looked the ground over relative to locating the new engine house. The question was whether to put it on the site of the old one or on the lot facing on Chapman avenue. It might be seen by more people on the main street; but that should be a small part of the considerations influencing the location. The lot on Chapman is too small for the engine house, oil tanks and other necessary accompaniments; and the city has no right of way over the intervening property. The line for the transmission of power and all other connections between the different parts of the works would therefore have to be carried around by Water street. The friction in a long transmission line with joints and elbows would entail some waste of power, which would continue indefinitely; besides the original cost of making the change would be not less than $1000 over and above the cost of locating the engine house on or near the site of the old one.

The wisdom of a previous board's buying the Harry Adams lots and thereby doubling the area of the water works site is now apparent to everybody, although the purchase was criticised by many at the time. It would be better if the city had the entire block; but that is out of the question now. The only course still open is to locate the different parts of the water plant in the most economical and convenient manner possible on ground the city now has, keeping in mind the future needs as well as the future cost of operation.

NEW HOUSES AT GARDEN GROVE

Buildings Are Nearing Completion—School Holiday on May Day

GARDEN GROVE, April 25.—Several new houses around Garden Grove are nearing completion. Among them are those for Mrs. Dr. Marshall, Roy Crane, Chas. McKee and Mr. Dunagan.

The school will have a holiday on May 1st.

Mrs. H. C. Powell with her little daughter Gretta and little son Ira expect to start next week for a trip into San Luis Obispo county, to visit friends and relatives in their old home. They expect to be gone a month or six weeks.

C. B. Henry has just returned from a trip in and around Los Angeles, taking in the beach towns, returning via Whittier, in his automobile.

Mr. Lloyd Crane had a bad accident on Wednesday when a pitcher broke on his left hand, causing an ugly cut. The tendons were cut, necessitating a slight operation to fasten the tendons together. The cut is healing nicely under the care of Dr. Prentice.

Mrs. Mable Harris, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Crane, returned to her home at Long Beach Thursday.

The Parliamentary Club met at the home of H. C. Powell. About fifteen were present. After an interesting lesson, refreshments were served and games were played.

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Betts of Newport Beach and Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Burton of Olive, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. Penfold on Sunday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Ingram, a daughter, April 20.

F. W. Burton of Olive was the morning speaker at the Latter Day Saints church on Sunday, and P. M. Betts of Newport Beach was the speaker for the evening. N. Carmichael, the pastor of this place, spoke in Santa Ana.

Willis Newsome is having about one-fourth mile of cement pipe laid on his 20 acre ranch northeast of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Rolph have returned from the north, bringing their daughter, Mrs. J. W. Randall, with them for a two months' stay. Mr. and Mrs. Rolph were delegates to the G. A. R. encampment at Stockton, and visited relatives in Oakland. They were away ten days.

Hon. J. E. Rickards of Montana, who is in Southern California on business, was a visitor at the home of W. H. Sweet Sunday.

D. McKee, formerly of this place, but now of Long Beach, was a business visitor here on Tuesday.

Florence Rutledge, who was badly burned some time ago, is able to be out again.

Mrs. J. E. Shields came home from the Santa Ana Hospital on Friday, where she has been for a short time.

E. M. Christensen has gone to Roswell, New Mexico, where he will superintend a large job of cement pipe work. He will be absent several weeks.

The store of J. C. McClain, occupied by Junkin & Keeler, is receiving a new coat of paint, a new awning and other improvements.

Mrs. J. A. Edwards has returned to her home in Colorado after a few days visit with Mrs. A. L. Davis and other friends.

"BIG BUSINESS" CONTROLS TAFT, SAYS BRISTOW

Standard Oil Got "What It Wanted."

Kansas Senator Forcefully Arraigns the Reactionary Candidate—Makes a Powerful "Case Against the Taft Administration"—Why Rockefeller Was Complicit as Election of 1908.

Washington, April 18.—That the Taft administration has entered into an understanding with the great business combinations of the country and that the relations between those combinations and the administration now are harmonious and directed toward a common end is the profound belief of Senator Joseph L. Bristow of Kansas, one of the foremost leaders of the progressive movement in the United States.

"If you take for a text the speech delivered in Philadelphia not long ago by President Taft, in which he declared himself a progressive along with the rejoinder thereto delivered by Colonel Roosevelt at Louisville and attach to these speeches the reasonable knowledge of known facts and events, you cannot escape the conclusion at which I have arrived," said Senator Bristow in a talk on what might be called "the case against the Taft administration." "Said Colonel Roosevelt:

Taft's "Progressivism."

"Four years ago the progressives supported Mr. Taft for president, and he was opposed by such representatives of special privilege as Mr. Penrose of Pennsylvania, Mr. Aldrich of Rhode Island and Mr. Gallinger of New Hampshire, as Messrs. Lorimer, Cannon and McKinley of Illinois, and he was opposed by practically all of the men of the stamp of Messrs. Guggenheimer and Evans of Colorado and Mr. Patrick Cahan of San Francisco. These men were not progressives then, and they are not progressives now; but, unlike the president, they know who is a progressive and who is not. Their judgment in the matter is good. After three and a half years of association with and knowledge of the president and his fellows are now the president's chief supporters, and they and the men who feel and act as they do in business and in politics give him the great bulk of his strength. The president says he is a progressive. These men know him well and have studied his actions for three years, and they regard him as being precisely the kind of progressive they approve.

"Study that extract from Colonel Roosevelt's speech, if you please. Get at its meaning. Why does the criminal on trial for his liberty or his ill gotten property seek to select a judge by asking a change of venue? Why does he discriminate so closely in the selection of the jury which is to try him? The law provides these expedients for him that he may get justice; but, being guilty, he does not resort to these expedients to secure justice, but to avoid it. When the great combinations which have piled up enormous aggregations of money by illegal and criminal means select and stand for a candidate for president they have a motive, a motive that it seems to me ought to be plain to all men.

John D. Was Informed.

"Let me next call your attention to the interview which John D. Rockefeller gave out at the Standard Oil offices in New York, Oct. 30, 1908, a few days before the election in which Mr. Taft first ran for the presidency. Mr. Rockefeller had not been near his offices for several years, and when he appeared there for the express purpose of making public in the most effective and far-reaching way this interview, Colonel Roosevelt and all the other progressives were of the opinion that it was done for the purpose of hurting Mr. Taft. But I have changed my mind about that since that time. I have become convinced that Mr. Rockefeller then had information about the complacency of Mr. Taft regarding 'Big Business' that the progressives did not have.

"As one indication of this, I have been advised that not very long before the Rockefeller interview the sugar trust approached Mr. Taft through Mr. Charles B. Warren of Michigan, the personal representative of the sugar trust in the beet sugar industry in Michigan, on matters vital to that infamous combination. That the conference was eminently satisfactory to the sugar trust was immediately shown by the fact that Mr. Warren and his associates were for Taft and have been for him ever since. Indeed, on this point I have only to recall to you that Mr. Warren was accredited in the press reports of a few days ago with being the person who at midnight placed fifty huskies from the Michigan beet sugar factories in the hall where the Michigan Republican state convention was to be held in order that the hall might be controlled in the interest of Mr. Taft and against Colonel Roosevelt the next day.

Oil Octopus In Touch.

"Now, if such a conference could make the sugar interests the devoted supporter of Mr. Taft the question naturally arises why something of the same kind might not have influenced Mr. Rockefeller. There are not the accurate data in regard to the Standard Oil company that there are relative to the meeting with the sugar trust, but there is some interesting collateral evidence tending to show that somewhere and somehow the oil octopus got in touch with the influences that controlled the then candidate for president. You will remember that after his election, but before his inauguration, Mr. Taft spent some little time at the Virginia Hot Springs. From that resort we received the first intimation ever emanating from any president of a purpose to establish the commerce court.

"I remember I was greatly surprised. When President Roosevelt forced the rate bill through congress, restoring the interstate commerce commission to power in the enforcement of its rulings, tremendous efforts were made by Messrs. Aldrich, Gallinger and the rest of the reactionaries to include in the law a provision for a court review of the commission's decisions. The progressive tendency of the time was distinctly against any court review, for it was the courts which had emasculated the commission of its power under the old law. The people generally feared a repetition of this. They wanted to control the railroads. They wanted to obliterate forever the possibility of a continuance of the processes by which such concerns as the Standard Oil company had used the common carriers to collect rebates on their own business and on that of their competitors at the same time. The reactionaries succeeded in getting a form of court review into the law, but not as free a one as they desired.

Trust and Commerce Court.

"Now, you will remember that W. R. Hearst during the campaign of 1908 read from the platform in different portions of the country letters that had been procured by some means from the files of the Standard Oil company. It was charged that the letters were stolen, but their authenticity was acknowledged. They were genuine letters, however procured. In reading them as they appeared in the papers I was one day not much surprised to learn that the idea of a separate court of review for interstate commerce commission decisions had emanated from the Standard Oil company. They were the first people to invent the idea of a commerce court. The proof of it was found in a letter written by Joseph Sibley of Pennsylvania, member of the house and confessed congressional lobbyist for the Standard Oil company. He was not the only lobbyist employed by that company we may believe, but he was one.

"In this letter, written by Mr. Sibley, at Washington, on Feb. 26, 1905, to Mr. John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil company and read from the platform by Mr. Hearst at Memphis, Tenn., on Sept. 19, 1908, is found the following paragraph relative to a certain 'Senator B.' who is described as 'wholly and unalterably opposed' to President Roosevelt's policy regarding corporations:

"In re power to fix railroad rates Mr. B. is for giving power to make rates, but will fight the idea of a separate court. I WAS SORRY NOT TO BE ABLE TO CHANGE HIS VIEWS ON THAT TOPIC.

Lobbying in the Senate.

"Here is documentary proof that the Standard Oil company had conceived the idea of a commerce court as long ago as before February, 1905, and that its lobbyists were engaged at that time in trying to gain support in the United States senate for the establishment of such a court. On Oct. 30, 1908, only a week before the election that was to decide the fate of Mr. Taft, John D. Rockefeller takes most unusual pains to serve public notice upon all friends of his kind of business throughout the country that Mr. Taft was the man to support for president. Now, what information did Mr. Rockefeller have that caused him to take this very unusual means to place his attitude on the presidential election before the business world? What could it have been? I myself do not know, but I do know that very shortly after his election Mr. Taft gave notice that he had the commerce court idea in his mind; I do know that before Mr. Taft had been long in the White House he caused a bill to be drawn providing for such a court and he used the power of his administration to enact that bill into law. Mr. Rockefeller evidently wanted to give him one as soon as he was safely elected. The plain inference must be that the sugar trust was not the only one of the great combinations that found a way to get at Mr. Taft. I can only believe that the Standard Oil company had its friend who could slip into Mr. Taft's presence and get what it wanted.

A "Working Arrangement."

"But, more than that, the selection of Mr. Taft's cabinet and the general attitude of the Taft administration in the tariff session and later convinced me that the administration had some sort of a working arrangement with 'Big Business.' I am certain 'Big Business' thought it had such a relationship. The president's complete change of front in regard to the tariff, the commerce court legislation, the speech giving a clean bill of health to Senator Aldrich, the administration's conduct of the Ballinger case, the Wisconsin speech extolling the Payne-Aldrich law and many other things convinced me that such an understanding existed. The country had honored Colonel Roosevelt for the enemies he made, yet those enemies became Mr. Taft's most ardent supporters from the very first. Figure it out for yourself.

"Just to make it plain in a few words, I may say that I am informed that the dissolution of the Standard Oil company and its reorganization by the circuit court under terms to which the administration raises no objection have enriched the stockholders of that corporation just about $220,000,000; also that the stockholders of the tobacco trust have come out of their encounter with the Sherman law as administered by this administration over $100,000,000 better off than they were before."

ROOSEVELT WAVE COUNTRY WIDE

New England Revolts From Taft Machine.

PROGRESSIVES LINING UP.

States Regarded as Conservative Strongholds Have Plainly Demonstrated That They Are Against the Candidate of Big Business—Staggering Blows to Standpatism.

Washington, April 18.—New England, so confidently claimed as Taft territory, has shown conclusively that it wants Colonel Theodore Roosevelt as its candidate for the presidency.

Up to date twenty delegates have been elected from this section. Of these fourteen are instructed for Colonel Roosevelt and six are uninstructed.

There remain sixty-eight delegates to be elected from New England. Of these New Hampshire will contribute eight, Rhode Island ten, Connecticut fourteen and Massachusetts thirty-six. Governor Bass of New Hampshire signed the call to Colonel Roosevelt to accept the presidential nomination if offered and is confident that his state will instruct solidly for Colonel Roosevelt. Massachusetts realized that if it failed to have a presidential preference primary its delegates would be named by the Taft machine politicians and the Republican voters would have absolutely nothing to say about it. Public sentiment was aroused, with the result that the primary law has passed, in spite of the opposition of the Taft leaders, backed by the president himself. Mr. Taft was urged to support the movement for a popular test, but refused to do so. After the law was on the statute books he gave it lip-loyal approval.

Lining Up For T. R.

In view of the fact that the law was passed as the result of the insistence of the Roosevelt forces it is easy to realize that the movement for the colonel has tremendous strength. There is every reason to believe that Massachusetts will give him the same routing majority that Illinois gave him a few days ago. In spite of the machines in operation in Rhode Island and Connecticut and the fact that no fight whatever has been made in either of these states for the colonel's candidacy there is a great deal of Roosevelt sentiment.

The New England situation is highly satisfactory from the Roosevelt point of view and equally unsatisfactory from the Taft standpoint. The six great states of the northeast with the exception of New Hampshire were believed to be the stronghold of conservatism, and Senator Gallinger, the ally and supporter of Senators Penrose, Crane and Lorimer, was confident that New Hampshire could be brought into line for Mr. Taft. Senator Dillingham, who also belongs to the senate ring and who for the second time has vindicated Lorimer, assured the president that Vermont would cast its vote solidly for him. Yet Mr. Taft has obtained not a single instructed delegate from Vermont. If it had been suggested several weeks ago that Colonel Roosevelt would carry Maine and that the president would not get a single instructed vote from that state nor the state of Vermont the man responsible for the suggestion, if living in Washington, would have been conveyed at once to an insane asylum. Yet Maine and Vermont have refused to place a single delegate in the Taft column.

Strength With Voters.

The strength of the Roosevelt wave will be realized when attention is called to the evidence furnished by action taken in different parts of the country. Oklahoma would have gone solidly for the colonel had not the Taft forces called a convention before it was definitely known that Mr. Roosevelt would accept the nomination if it were tendered to him. As it was, he has got all but two of the delegates from that state. Illinois, in which a presidential preference primary occurred, gave the colonel fifty-six out of its fifty-eight delegates, with a tremendous majority in the state at large of 130,000 over Taft. To prevent Colonel Roosevelt from getting delegates frauds have been perpetrated in Indiana, Michigan, Kentucky and other states, especially in the south.

The Illinois vote may properly be taken as an indication of Colonel Roosevelt's strength with the voters. It is local in so far as the number of delegates elected is concerned, but it is country wide in its proof of what the people will do if they can express themselves. It is, of course, impossible to vault up sentiment within the boundary lines of a state. The American people are a unit, swayed by the same impulses and moved by the same judgment. It is axiomatic in politics that when there is a pronounced movement in one part of the country it is bound to show in other sections. The extremes of Maine and Illinois are in point.

It may be safely predicted therefore that New Hampshire and Massachusetts will instruct their delegates for Colonel Roosevelt and that some results will be obtained in Rhode Island and Connecticut. In this event the territory which was believed to be absolutely stand pat and upon which the president and his supporters depended will be represented in the Republican convention by Roosevelt delegates.

GREAT SAN JACINTO VALLEY

Picturesque and beautiful! A playground grand enough for the gods. Eighteen thousand level acres as fertile and productive as the sun ever shone on, and every foot under a high state of cultivation. Great apricot, peach, walnut, pear and orange orchards—miles of the best alfalfa fields in the state. The soil is easy to work, just like one big mellow garden.

Water, literally oceans of it, and you never tasted such water in your life. It's fit to be bottled and sold by the pint and quart. This pure, sparkling elixir of good health is already piped by a network of underground conduits all over the country, and at a price below any in the state. Likewise, these lands, together with the water, are being sold for just one-half what is asked for other lands that in any way approach them in productiveness, and right under the wing of Los Angeles. To live on a ranch in this valley is like ranching in a city. In fact, our most distant acre is but a suburb to one of the prettiest, as well as the most quaint and homelike, little cities in the whole of Southern California, the City of San Jacinto. Its citizens are hospitable to a fault. You are scarcely in the valley a day till you feel acquainted with everyone. In truth, you cannot find a more desirable, homelike, healthful or prosperous place to make your home, for either ranch or business purposes. The fertile, semi-tropical San Jacinto Valley is conceded by everyone who knows to be the most ideal home place in the whole state. Its whole arrangement is artistic and beautiful to look upon. It reminds one of an immense sunken garden, surrounded as it is on three sides by a chain of most beautiful decorated mountains, its panorama of cozy homes, well-groomed ranches and stately castles on the little knolls. It's a beauty spot really beyond description. It should be seen.

A committee has been appointed with autos to show everybody around free of charge, and you will be under no obligation for the sight.

Write a card for further information. Better still, come and see it at once, for this is truly the cream of the whole country. Do not worry about terras. They will be made to suit your convenience. Three hours by auto or by the Santa Fe from Los Angeles, come over in the morning, back in the evening, (near Riverside) San Jacinto Board of Trade, Old First National Bank Bldg., San Jacinto, Cal. Look for another message in this paper tomorrow. Send card for photographs and further particulars.

PINCHOT TELLS THE INSIDE STORY OF THE PROGRESSIVE "DESERTION" OF LA FOLLETTE

Senator La Follette sent from Nebraska recently to the San Francisco, a telegram in which he made a personal attack upon Mr. Gifford Pinchot because of Mr. Pinchot's public support of Colonel Roosevelt for the Republican presidential nomination. Immediately upon seeing the newspaper report of Senator La Follette's telegram, Mr. Pinchot made public a letter which he had written to Senator La Follette on February 17th last and which fully explains the reason for Mr. Pinchot's present attitude. Mr. Pinchot had intended to make this letter public at the time it was written, but soon after it was delivered to Senator La Follette, a personal friend of the Senator called upon Mr. Pinchot and appealed to him not to take such action in view of Senator La Follette's physical condition. Mr. Pinchot yielded to this request but he considers that the present attitude of Senator La Follette not only removes the consideration under which he then acted, but compels the publication of the letter.

This letter will be read with special interest at this time in view of the fact that both Senator La Follette and Mr. Pinchot are soon to make speaking tours in this state. The letter follows:

"February 17, 1912.
Hon. Robert M. La Follette,
Washington, D. C.
My Dear Senator:

"In answer to a request, made to your secretary over the telephone, to let me know when I could see you, I received on the night of February 15 the following letter:

"Dear Sir:

"Mr. La Follette directs me to say that, in view of your course in connection with his campaign, and because of the misconception to which a conference with you, the supporter of another candidate, would certainly be subject, he must decline to have any further communication with you pending this campaign."

"Yours truly,
"N. H. DUNN, Secretary."

"My chief reason for desiring to see you was to settle definitely my status with relation to your candidacy. I had just returned to Washington after an absence which began before Mr. Houser's statement of February 5 concerning your condition was issued, and here were several matters I was anxious to discuss.

"Since your letter prevents me from giving you personally my reasons for the action which my desire to help the progressive movement requires me to take, I must do so in writing.

"When, in order to further the advance of the Progressive principles, a group of Progressives agreed last year that it was necessary to place a progressive candidate for the presidential nomination in the field, we did so with two clear and definite purposes in view. These were, first, to aid the Progressives together as an effective fighting force; and second, to prevent the nomination of a reactionary Republican for the presidency.

"At that time Colonel Roosevelt's well known desire not to be nominated had not been offset by a great public demand for his leadership, and I was in hearty sympathy with his wishes. Therefore, since a Progressive was to enter the field for the Republican nomination, your character, your ability, and your great record of useful public service made you clearly the most available candidate. Upon the advice of your friends, without serious hope you could win the nomination, and for the single purpose of advancing the cause in which we all believed, you decided to make the fight.

"My belief that the two purposes for which our group undertook the present contest were precisely those I have described is confirmed by your approval of a definite and specific statement to that effect, first embodied in a public speech made by me before the Press Club of Chicago, on December 7, 1911. This speech was submitted to Mr. Walter L. Houser, the manager whom you had selected to conduct your campaign, and was vigorously approved by him before it was delivered. Later you read and approved that part to which I refer, and is was repeated with your approval and his in a public speech in Boston. Finally, it was read to you as a proposed part of my speech of introduction at your meeting in Carnegie Hall and was approved again. You will recall that your satisfaction with it led you to suggest that it should be distributed as a campaign document from the Progressive Republican Headquarters. That part of it which concerns the present question is as follows:

"I had come to believe deeply in the Progressive movement. So had La Follette, long before me. Our common interest drew us together. With Louis Brandeis, an intimate friend of us both, we discussed many matters that concerned all three. As time went on, the future of the Progressive movement occupied our attention more and more. It was not a question of the presidency, important as that was and is, but a matter far more vital, the condition of the Progressive movement when the next election should be over. Were the Progressive groups to disintegrate, or draw close together? Was the movement which was concerned the minds of the people so rapidly to have a leader or was it to be scattered for the lack of a man to follow? It became very plain that what was needed was a rallying point, and that the Progressive movement could not be kept in efficient fighting condition without a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination.

"At that time the most we hoped to accomplish was to prevent the nomination of any reactionary. We all believed, La Follette with the rest, that the man who made the fight might win the fight for the movement, but that he could not win the nomination for himself. At that time it was clear to us all that the leader of this fight would have less chance for the nomination than if he kept out of it. I know of my own knowledge that when Senator La Follette allowed his name to be used as a candidate, he did not expect to win the nomination, and that is one reason why I know that he is fighting for a cause and not for a man.

"Further confirmation of this view of the objects our group set out to attain is supplied by a resolution passed by the Progressive Republicans of Ohio, at Columbus, on January 1st, 1912, at the direct suggestion of your manager, Mr. Houser, after consultation, I am informed, with yourself. This resolution said:

"We hereby declare it to be the determined purpose of the Ohio Progressive Republican League to work in harmony and union to nominate a Progressive Republican for President, recognizing as fellow-progressives all who hold the principles for which we stand, whether they be for the Presidential nomination of Robert M. La Follette, or Theodore Roosevelt, or any other Progressive Republican. We assert the essential unity of the Progressive movement throughout the entire state and nation. We favor the election of delegates who will favor the nomination of a candidate who will fully represent Progressive principles."

"The form of this resolution was suggested by Mr. Houser, and the first draft of it was written by him and is still in existence.

"The policy of the Progressive Republican Headquarters was thus established in the beginning, repeatedly reasserted with your approval, and finally confirmed after a thorough discussion at the widely known meeting at Columbus. This policy was suddenly reversed by your order several weeks ago, without notice or consultation with the groups of men by which it had been established and supported. The reversal was embodied in orders to local managers directing them that your campaign must thereafter be conducted without consultation with the managers of any other Progressive campaign, and that no cooperation between La Follette Progressives and other Progressives would be permitted.

"The established purpose of a group of men devoted to the cause of good government by popular rule cannot, of course, be overturned by one man, even though he be a candidate. Wholly apart, however, from the question of your relation to the men who have acted as your campaign committee, your decision, if allowed to stand, would necessarily defeat the purposes for which this movement was organized and which it has continued to serve. These purposes were from the beginning, and have never ceased to be, to keep the Progressive movement as an effective fighting force, and to prevent the nomination of a reactionary Republican candidate for the Presidency.

"Many Progressives throughout the country earnestly desire the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt. Others, who would otherwise prefer your candidacy, are convinced that Colonel Roosevelt is the only Progressive who can be nominated, and believe that there is nothing to be gained by trying to nominate a man whose nomination is impossible. The few Progressives who are willing in behalf of a hopeless candidacy to contest for delegates against all Progressives who differ from them, have been or will be brought into open conflict with the men who favor Colonel Roosevelt's nomination. Thus, the first necessary result of your desire to separate the La Follette supporters from all other Progressives would be, if carried out, either to leave you without substantial following or to establish immediate hostility among the men this movement was organized to keep together.

"It seems clear that the course you are pursuing offers Mr. Taft his best, and indeed his only chance, to secure the nomination. The single justification that can be advanced for this course is based on the theory that Colonel Roosevelt, the only Progressive who can be nominated, is in fact not a Progressive at all. This theory is clearly untenable. I recognize that Colonel Roosevelt may not hold Progressive views which coincide at all points with your own, but I recognize also, and the country knows, that he is a genuine Progressive. That question was settled once for all by his active championship of human rights during the seven years of struggle which made the Progressive movement National.

"Your decision to abandon the two main purposes for which our group was organized led to two recent conferences in Washington. At the last one a large majority of those in attendance expressed their belief that the course you had taken was unwise. Some of those who thus expressed themselves decided, however, out of consideration for your personal desire, to follow your program in spite of their belief that to do so would injure the Progressive cause. Many of the latter have since been forced by the logic of the situation to reconsider that decision.

"One of the consequences of your determination, as you yourself admitted at the first conference, is to destroy all practical hope of your nomination. Just before the conference of January 29, a number of us were told by your manager, Mr. Houser, that he feared close together? Was the movement which was concerned the minds of the people so rapidly to have a leader or was it to be scattered for the lack of a man to follow? It became very plain that what was needed was a rallying point, and that the Progressive movement could not be kept in efficient fighting condition without a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination.

"At that time the most we hoped to accomplish was to prevent the nomination of any reactionary. We all believed, La Follette with the rest, that the man who made the fight might win the fight for the movement, but that he could not win the nomination for himself. At that time it was clear to us all that the leader of this fight would have less chance for the nomination than if he kept out of it. I know of my own knowledge that when Senator La Follette allowed his name candidacy while continuing your campaign for Progressive principles and for a Progressive Republican platform, and to support, and advise your followers to support, the only Progressive through whom there is a chance to keep the Progressives together and defeat a Reactionary nomination at Chicago. This view, however, has not met your approval. Since then, neither of these courses has been accepted by you, I can not avoid considering how, in view of all the facts, I can best serve the Progressive cause.

"Do not misunderstand me. I recognize fully the high quality of your public service. My appreciation of the work you have done for the Progressive cause is undiminished. Nevertheless, personal considerations such as these must not induce me to set the man above the cause, nor can I follow you in setting aside the objects for which this fight began.

"I realize that you believe the members of our group are committed to your personal fortunes, but I can accept no such conclusion. The commitment made by the members of this group, myself among them, to see this fight through, applied, and could only apply, to the cause, and not to the man as against the cause. That is the only kind of commitment either you or I can recognize.

"The course you have selected to follow forsakes the two great objects for which we entered this fight. I have done my best to prevent your taking such a course, and my regret is deep and sincere. My regret, however, can not alter the fact that the continuance of your candidacy along the changed lines you have laid down will tend to defeat these objects by promoting Progressive disruption and Reactionary success. That fact alone, in my judgment, constitutes a complete release to every man who undertook, through the medium of this campaign, to work for Progressive unity and victory. Even if this were not so, Mr. Houser's statement of February 5 was sufficient to open the way for your followers to support whatever candidate they believed could best advance the Progressive cause, and this was the interpretation put upon it by Mr. Houser in answer to the questions of your friends.

"Whatever part I have taken in politics has been based directly and openly on the proposition that when a man can not follow both his leader and his conscience, he must stick to his principles and let the leader go. This willingness to follow principles rather than men is the very foundation of the Progressive movement. What I have preached to others, I must make an honest effort to practice myself.

"Your decision forces me either to abandon the two objects for which this campaign was undertaken, or to cease to support you. There can be but one choice. I am, and shall remain, free to set the good of the general cause above the desires and the fortunes of any individual. In view of your action, the success of the Progressive principles requires me now to advocate the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt. By doing so, I believe I can best advance the Progressive principles, the unity of the progressive cause, and the deliverance of our government from the control of reactionary politicians. From the beginning, I have been fighting for a cause and a principle, and not for a man.

"Several weeks before your speech in Philadelphia, many of your friends had seen with real sorrow that the change in your outlook brought about by overwork and overstrain had made it difficult for you to face the facts as you had faced them in the beginning of the campaign. I had this in mind when I replied to a telegram asking news of your condition, that in my judgment it was such as to make your further serious candidacy impossible. This telegram, which I neither intended nor expected to be made public, is doubtless the basis of your mistaken belief that I had become the supporter of another candidate. As our recent conferences made plain to all who took part in them, I have for some time believed that the progress of hope of Progressive success lies in the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt, but I have been careful to take no part in advocating his nomination until the question with which this letter deals had been settled between us, as it is settled now.

"In conclusion let me express my real regret for the suffering you have undergone, and are still undergoing. I am confident that it is your overwrought condition which is responsible both for the change in your attitude toward the original purposes of our campaign and for the letter to which this is a reply. I hope for your speedy recovery, and for the renewal of the great services to our people, which have already given your name so large a place in the history of the Progressive movement.

"Very sincerely,
